A Time to Look Ahead

Tuesday night's hair-line decision by the electorate not to create one municipality is a disappointment to a majority of Princetonians. Numerically, more of them favored consolidation than were opposed to it, but it is wholly logical that the minority, whose votes were barely sufficient to record the Borough as being opposed, should not be annexed against their own wishes.

New Jersey law stipulates that three years must pass before a similar referendum can be held again. Because such a short passage of time should not be sufficient for the two municipalities to drift very far apart, it may be that those who worked so hard for approval of the question this year will wish to try again.

Whatever their decision in the months ahead, it is to be hoped that forecasts of a break-down in governmental relations between the two municipalities will not prove accurate. As TOWN TOPICS reported last week, there have been indications that consolidation's defeat might be followed by a strong move to break up the joint agencies and commissions in fields of health, recreation, planning and more which have been operating as one for a number of years.

In rejecting consolidation, Borough voters have in effect said they prefer to solve their own problems in the years that lie ahead. Those who live in the Township have been questioning — well before Election Day — the validity of paying two-thirds of the cost of various aspects of municipal government and services, while receiving only half of the decision-making process. Nonetheless, it would be unfortunate, at least for the immediate future, if all the progress that has been realized toward unity in the

Consolidation Defeated in Borough by 33 Votes; Cawley, Woodbridge, Hill, Adriance Are Winners

Consolidation of Borough and Township into a single municipality was defeated by a margin of 33 votes Tuesday. In the same election, both Princetons kept incumbent mayors, elected newcomers to public office and, in the Borough, defeated a three-term office holder.

The Borough voted down the consolidation referendum by 1,512 to 1,479 — 33 votes. The Township passed it by 3,445 to 1,443. In the Borough, 48.8 percent of the voters went to the polls; in the Township, 57.7 percent.

There was talk on Tuesday night of a possible recount. Pro-consolidation groups have 30 days to decide.

For consolidation of two municipalities to take place, under New Jersey law, a majority of the voters of both must vote in favor. The law specifies a three-year interval before consolidation can be voted on again.

"It is disappointing," said Ingrid Reed, co-chairman of the Borough group supporting consolidation, "but the close vote makes me feel that we really aren't that far apart, that there is really a feeling we are one community."

Republican Robert W. Cawley held onto his mayor's chair by an 83-vote lead over Democratic challenger Robert McChesney. The vote was 1,548 to 1,465.

The 95-vote victory of Republican George Adriance over Democrat William Starr in the Township assures the continuing Mayoralty of Josie Hall. In the Township, the mayor is the senior member of the majority party and the Republicans will keep their 3-2 majority. The tally was 2,469 for Adriance; 2,374 for Starr.

Democrat Martin P. Lombardo, who has been a Borough Council member for nine years, was defeated. His seat will be taken by Barbara Hill, a newcomer to public office.

Republican incumbent Richard Woodbridge was re-elected. His running mate, Gary Grover, was low man on the ballot.

Mr. Woodbridge was high scorer in the Council race, winning with 1,694. Next was Mrs. Hill with 1,516. Mr. Lombardo received 1,365 and Mr. Grover, 1,323.

It is expected that the two Democratic losers, Mr. McChesney and Mr. Lombardo, may volunteer for the Council seat vacated by Democrat Leona Medvin's resignation. (See page 5.)

Consolidation won in five of the Borough's ten districts, and lost in five. It carried all of the Township's 14 districts.

The stronghold of the anti-consolidation vote was, as observers expected it to be, District Four. Historians may be interested in the box on page 2 showing results of the last consolidation referendum, a quarter-century ago in 1953. In that vote, too, the stronghold of opposition was District Four. The district comprises the streets from the east side of Moore, through Moran Avenue, Chestnut, Pine, Maple and Linden, north to Franklin.

This is the home district of Mrs. Reed, who led the consolidation proponents, and of Nelson van den Blink, co-chairman of the anti-consolidation group.

In District Four, the measure was defeated by 153 votes, the widest margin of any district. In District Nine, for example, in the Pelham and Wilton area, it was defeated by 51 and in District Five, which includes Jefferson and Madison, it was defeated by 56.

Black residents of the Borough, who live chiefly in District Six, voted in favor of consolidation by 124 to 113. The measure found its strongest support in districts with heavy student registration. District One, where many undergraduates live, voted in favor by 178 to 51 and District Ten, where the Graduate College is located, gave consolidation 224 of 114.

Observers who had predicted a possible defeat for consolidation also had been saying that Mr. Cawley might be defeated with it, since he had taken a public stand in favor of consolidation and his opponent, Mr. McChesney, had declared his opposition.

Mr. Cawley did not carry District Four, where consolidation was defeated, but that district has traditionally been a Democratic one. Mr. McChesney received 211 votes there, to Mr. Cawley's 99. Mr. McChesney polled nicely in Districts Three, Five and Six. The mayor's strength was in his home District Eight, where he polled 212 to Mr. McChesney's 65, and in Districts Nine and Ten, where he carried the day by 19 and 80 respectively.

Mr. Lombardo's strength was in District Three, including Hamilton and Erdman and the Lloyd Terrace area where many senior citizens live. He also did well in District Six.

District Three was a big district for Mr. Woodbridge, Mr. Lombardo's opponent, also. He also won over his opponents in Eight, Nine and Ten. Eight and Ten are traditionally regarded as Republican neighborhoods.

Mrs. Hill, who ran 151 votes ahead of her running-mate, Mr. Lombardo, is new to office-seeking, although she has been active in the Democratic party for several years. She scored well in District Three -- in fact, all four candidates did their best in that District -- but in District Ten, where the Graduate College is located, she ran third to Mr. Woodbridge and Mr. Grover. She holds the position of Master of the Graduate College.

In other contests, Mercer County voters elected a Republican County Executive -- William Mathesius -- overturning incumbent Arthur Sypek. All three Democratic Freeholder candidates were elected, including Princeton resident Barbara Sigmund.

Mrs. Sigmund carried the Borough with 1,095 votes, a 500-vote margin over her nearest rival. Mr. Mathesius received 1,413 votes in the Borough to Mr. Sypek's 1,206. In the Township, Mrs. Sigmund also won, receiving 2,781 votes, approximately 400 more than the nearest Freeholder candidate. Mr. Mathesius received 2,682 to Mr. Sypek's 1,683.

Two other public questions besides consolidation were on the ballot. The transportation bond issue passed, thereby bringing a 92-A bypass -- perhaps -- closer for Princeton. The education bond issue was defeated.

Both measures passed in Princeton, although the transportation bond issue received slightly greater majorities in both Borough and Township.

At press time, Democrat Barbara McConnell and Republican Karl Weidel were ahead in the New Jersey Assembly race. In the Borough, Mrs. McConnell and Republican Richard Zimmer were the high scorers with 1,704 and 1,395. In the Township, Mr. Zimmer was high candidate for the Assembly with 2,563 votes, Mr. Weidel, his running-mate, had 2,331. Mrs. McConnell received 2,005.

A Look Ahead

past decade and a half were washed away by recriminations based on Election Day, 1979.

Those who had hoped to see the Town of Princeton born on Tuesday are saddened that it was not permitted to supersede the somewhat conflicting forms of government that have served in the past, and have now been charged with guiding the community into the complex and difficult future. They had a dream of unity, of a "greater" Princeton in the sense that it would have been better. However, because of the 33-vote margin -- a fraction of one percent of those who went to the polls -- by which the decision was rendered, it may be entirely possible to try again in the near future. Progress is not always achieved in easy steps.

Builder's Plans for 19 Office-Research Lots In Herrontown Road Area Still Being Debated

PLANS ON A MAP: Developer W. Bryce Thompson IV is asking Planning Board subdivision approval for property in the section of the Township zoned Office-Research on the 1968 Master Plan. "X" shows where Mr. Thompson already has approval for two lots. Two others, adjoining, were turned down by the board. Currently, the board is considering the 11 proposed lots of Mr. Thompson's Nassau Builders. After making that decision, the board will turn to the eight lots in the area marked Princeton Research Lands. This plan calls for extension of Bunn Drive, which now ends at Princeton Community Village.

The plans of W. Bryce Thompson IV to develop property he owns in the Township's Office-Research section are still traveling the winding roads of the Planning Board. Another, and everyone hopes, a final session has been set for Monday, November 19, at 8 in the Valley Road Building.

When the board, at its 11:30 witching hour Monday night, made its standard request of Mr. Thompson's attorney, Thomas C. Jamieson, for extension, Mr. Jamieson agreed, as he always does. But he pointed out that the board is now 60 days beyond the legal decision deadline, riding along on a gentlemen's agreement with the applicant.

At present, the board is wrestling with Mr. Thompson's Nassau Builders parcel. Mr. Thompson wants to subdivide the land into 11 lots.

TOPICS Of The Town

Everybody talks about five-story office buildings on these lots, because that's what the Office-Research Zone allows. Added to the eight Princeton Research Lands next on the board's agenda, this makes a potential of 19 buildings -- 21, if you add the two Princeton Research Lands plots for which Mr. Thompson already has approval.

But Mr. Thompson repeated again Monday night that "not one five-story building has ever been built or proposed" on his property. He is before the board for subdivision only, and presumably will then sell off individual lots to various companies or developers. He has told past Planning Board meetings that it may take 20 years to fill in the spaces on his property grid.

Conflict Develops. Meantime, the land use subcommittee of the Planning Board has proposed something quite different for the northeast corner of the Township, where Mr. Thompson's land is. Under a new Master Plan, the area would be removed from Office-Research. Steep slopes, drainage, run-off and erosion problems, shallow soil on top of hard diabase, make it unsuitable for heavy-duty building, the land-use committee has decided.

But there is still no new Master Plan, so the Office-Research designation still stands and Mr. Thompson wants to get his subdivision approval before the label is switched.

Major Changes Involved. Traffic has been the main theme of the last two meetings. Henry J. Ney, Mr. Thompson's traffic consultant, repeated earlier testimony that if the property were developed with an eight percent ratio of buildings to land, Poor Farm Road would have to be extended; if a 16 percent development ratio, Herrontown would have to be put through from Mt. Lucas all the way to Snowden, Bunn Drive extended, and the Route 206-Herrontown intersection monitored to watch its traffic flow.

With 24 percent development, a traffic light would be required at Herrontown and Route 206, plus a widened intersection with left-turn lanes and channeled traffic, and the intersection of Route 26 with the stub known as both Cherry Valley and Princeton Avenue, would become a vital turning point. The zone is allowed 45 percent.

So far, the Planning Board has agreed to extend Herrontown just enough to accommodate the pair of approved Princeton Research plots marked "X" on the map. It denied approval to Mr.

Thompson for two adjoining plots because access roads would have been on Mt. Lucas near Herrontown and the forthcoming Dogwood Hill development.

Under that 24 percent ratio, Mr. Ney said, Mt. Lucas would have 250 to 300 cars an hour at peak periods (the current rate is 60 an hour).

Board member Wendy Benchley asked Mr. Ney if his figures, which are for a research park development, would be different for office use.

"It would be 75 to 100 percent more traffic," Mr. Ney replied. "An office park has restaurants, shops, service stations. Research is different. And I ruled out doctors' offices -- they are completely different."

He told board member Elizabeth Hutter that he had not done calculations for the hotel-like conference centers with a maximum of 200 guests, allowed in the OR zone.

Traffic Counts Outdated. Mrs. Hutter has also expressed concern that Mr. Ney was using Mt. Lucas traffic counts made in 1976, which do not include projects already approved but not built--Wren, and Peterson's Guides on Bunn Drive, a second Benedict-Yedlin office building on Herrontown, residential projects by Mr. Yedlin and the Dogwood Hill developers, projects completed in recent years, such as Redding Terrace and Princeton Community Village, and Mr. Thompson's own pair of approved lots in the first part of Princeton Research Lands.

Alain L. Kornhauser, director of Princeton University's Transportation Program, was asked by Mrs. Hutter for comments. Dr. Kornhauser, and several members of the Planning Board, suggested that many drivers would use Mt. Lucas instead of Route 206 if they had jobs with Commodities Corporation, already on Mt. Lucas, or other firms.

On the present Master Plan, Mt. Lucas is shown as a 24-foot-wide road. It is now between 18 and 24 feet. Mr. Ney drew a gasp from some Planning Board members when he suggested a possible 36-foot width for Poor Farm, to make up the narrower widths of other roads. He also gave a flat "no" when asked if 18 feet is a safe width for joggers.

Traffic isn't Mr. Thompson's only problem. In that side, she did not see a car part of the world, sewerage is done through the plant owned Chestnut Street. The Hirsch jointly by Princeton and Montgomery Townships and of the Storer car, causing Rocky Hill. A Princeton extensive damage to both.

Township Committee resolution limits any one developer to one-third of the amount remaining in Princeton's share of that sewer plant's capacity. There are now 39,000 gallons per day left. This means only 13,000 for the entire Nassau Builders project of 11 lots.

STUDENT HIT BY CAR
Crossing Washington Road. Seventeen-year old Rona Woldenberg of 1901 Hall, Princeton University, was injured seriously Monday night when she was struck by a car, as she attempted to cross Washington Road near Prospect Avenue.

She was admitted in serious condition to Princeton Medical Center and operated on for multiple injuries and fractures. Her condition on Tuesday was described as stable.

Police were called at 6:07 and Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli, Ptl. Monica Sheehan and Sgt. Timothy Huizing responded. The investigation is being continued by Ptl. Sheehan, as additional witnesses still have to be questioned.

The driver was identified as Edward A. Zunz Jr., 42, of South Orange.

A car exiting from a Westminster College drive collided Saturday morning with another traveling on Walnut Lane.

The driver, Meredith Storer, 21, of Morristown, told Sgt. Thomas Procaccino that she had looked both ways but because cars were parked close to the drive on either side, she did not see a car driven by Frederick Hirsch of 51 done through the plant owned Chestnut Street. The Hirsch jointly by Princeton and Montgomery Townships and of the Storer car, causing Rocky Hill. A Princeton extensive damage to both.

Mr. Hirsch received six sutures at Princeton Medical Center to close a laceration under his chin. Ms. Storer was ticketed for improperly entering a roadway.

Monday morning at 7:56, Sgt. Procaccino issued an identical summons to Martha Wood, 33 Maple Street.

Mrs. Wood's car was struck in the side as she exited from Larry's sunoco service station, 273 Nassau street. The entire side was damaged and it was judged a total loss.

Taken to the Medical Center after she complained of soreness in her side, Mrs. Wood was treated and released. Police identified the second driver as Jay Kraus of Colonia.

Blackout. William L. Peskin, 327 Walnut Lane, told Township Sgt. David Potts that he blacked out Monday morning as he was turning left from Shady Brook Lane onto Wittmer Court and did not remember anything else.

When we introduced the Icelandic Wool European Comforter to Princeton in September of 1978, we sensed we were offering a terrific product at a very reasonable price.

Personally testing the comforter at home strengthened our opinions. Our feelings were reinforced when we saw initial Icelandic comforter purchasers return to Landau's last December wishing to buy more comforters as practical Christmas gifts.

Now in November 1979, 13 months later, virtually everyone who purchased one comforter last year has returned again to prepare every bed in their home for winter 1980. The product is so functionally right for today's energy conscious consumer, so comfortable and warm and practical (eliminates bed making, top sheet, blanket and bedspread) that we've been caught short. This Icelandic comforter is so unusual, House Beautiful will be discussing it in its January issue. At the present time we don't have any comforters in stock.

We are expecting additional comforter deliveries from Iceland toward the middle or end of November and ask that you appraise your cold weather sleeping situation, Christmas gift list, and place your orders accordingly. You, and those you love, will sleep more comfortably and economically this winter than ever before.

Cancer Society Seeks Smokeless Day Throughout Mercer County on Nov. 15

Next Thursday, November 15, the American Cancer Society will ask all smokers to take a day off from their cigarettes, pipes and cigars. Here in Mercer county, as well as across the United States, smokers will be urged to take the pledge — that's to promise not to smoke for 24 hours (and maybe longer).

During the next week, Boy Scouts will be asking commuters at busy Mercer County spots to take the pledge not to smoke on November 15. In exchange, they'll offer sugarless gum, donated by E.R. Squibb & Sons, to help smokers through the day.

High school students throughout the county are being asked to participate in a smoking survey. Assembly and classroom activities are in the planning stages to encourage smoking students to quit and non-smokers not to start.

By November 15, 45,000 employees throughout Mercer county will have received flyers with their paychecks encouraging them to pledge to quit. A hot line will be available at the American Cancer Society office on November 15 to assist those trying to stay quit for the day. The number is 394-5000.

new Biochemical Sciences Laboratory.

Princeton's research on the biochemical basis of malignancy has been recognized by the National Cancer Institute, which has funded a Basic Sciences Cancer Center at the university — one of only a few such centers in the United States not associated with a medical school. The gift will go toward purchase of equipment for the center, which is housed in the new Biochemical Sciences Laboratory on William Street.

JEWELRY IS STOLEN

From Moran Avenue Home. A diamond ring and gold bracelet valued at $1,500 each were stolen last week from a Moran Avenue home. Two other rings and a watch with a combined value of $650 were also taken. Police said these items were only a partial list.

His car struck a tree on the property of 28 Wittmer. He was treated at the Medical Center for a concussion.

While Roslyn Freund, 50 Wheatshaf Lane, was driving on Guyot Lane last week, her car struck the edge of a manhole cover, which police said was exposed about eight inches above the surface. The roadway had sunk and was badly broken up around the cover, police reported.

Mrs. Freund and her 16-year old son, David, each sustained head injuries. The front and undercarriage of her car were damaged in the incident.

TO FILL SEAT

Vacated by Medvin. The new occupant of Leona Medvin's Borough Council seat may well be determined by the outcome of this week's elections. Council is scheduled to meet at 8 in Borough Hall this Wednesday to interview people who would like the job.

So far, only Alan Wallack and Peter Bearse have indicated an interest; however, Democrats running for mayor and Council are expected to step forward if the vote has gone against them.

The Princeton Community Democratic Association has scheduled a 6:30 p.m. meeting in advance of the interviewing session, to consider and screen candidates. Three names are expected to be submitted to Council in time for the 8 p.m. session.

Mary Perone, the Democrats' municipal chairman, will also accept nominations at 924-3741 until noon Wednesday.

After this Wednesday's interviews, Council will vote Thursday on the replacement. The meeting, at 8 in Borough Hall, will be the regular November council meeting.

CHARGES PILE UP

Following Stolen Car Chase. Joseph M. Sawinski, 21, of Kendall Park, arrested last week by Borough police, is in trouble again. He faces a long list of motor vehicle charges from Princeton, Franklin Township and Trenton police following a stolen car chase.

It began in Princeton at 1:52 Saturday morning when Ptl. David Alston saw a car speeding on Nassau turn onto Washington Road. It was being pursued by a second car. Ptl. Alston took up the chase.

The second car stopped and told Ptl. Alston that the car ahead had just been stolen from Franklin Township. It continued south on Route 1, followed by Alston.

Lawrence and Trenton police were notified and roadblocks were set up. When Sawinski was finally forced off the road in Falls Township, Pa. by Trenton police. He was charged by Ptl. Alston with car theft and resisting arrest.

Ptl. Alston was cited by Chief Michael Carnevale for his role in the incident. "You hear a lot about 'hot pursuit,' what an officer did not do and should have done. Ptl. Alston managed to keep the car under surveillance while not exceeding 50 to 70 miles an hour. He did everything required by department regulations concerning pursuits."

$1.5 MILLION GIVEN

University Library Benefits. Princeton University has received a bequest of over $1.5 million from the estate of Sinclair Hamilton, Class of 1906 and a noted collector and scholar in the field of early American illustrated books.

The bequest will be used in support of the University Library, including the purchase and maintenance of illustrated books and special collections.

Mr. Hamilton, who died in 1978, spent his entire professional career as an attorney with the New York City law firm now called Milbank, Tweed, Hadley, and McCloy. Throughout his lifetime he remained active in Princeton affairs — acting as editor of the 1906 classbook for over 20 years, giving to the library from his collection of rare books and manuscripts and serving for many years as chairman of the Friends of the Princeton University Library.

"The university is deeply grateful for this munificent gift, which comes at a time when libraries — more than ever — need the enlightened support of friends and alumni," said Princeton president William G. Bowen. "Mr. Hamilton's bequest is important to the library generally and particularly to the Graphic Arts Collection. His many gifts to Princeton over the years emphasized rare books and American illustrated books, a subject on which he was an authority. Permanent endowment for this activity, through this bequest, represents the culmination of a lifetime of informed generosity."

$166,000 for Cancer Research. The University has also received a $166,000 gift from the Fannie E. Rippel Foundation of Morristown, N.J., in support of equipment for cancer research to be carried out in the university's

The home was entered between 11:15 a.m. and 9:30 p.m. Saturday by someone who broke a pane of glass in a cellar door. Ptl. David Alston and Ptl. Randy Sutton investigated.

The same day, using the same method of entry, a thief entered a Chestnut Street home. Taken were two cameras, lenses and other camera equipment with a combined value of $750.

Cash and jewelry valued at about $1,000 and a color television set were taken Thursday from a Boudinot Street home. Police said that a rear door window was broken early in the evening to gain access.

During early evening hours while the house was vacant, someone forced open the front door of a Wiggins Street home and took jewelry, credit cards and approximately $50 cash. The cards were found the next day on Wiggins Street and returned to the owner. Total value of the stolen items was $900.

A Witherspoon Street store was entered last week by way of a broken window on the side of the building and $50 was taken from a cash box. Police received a report of the entry at 8:57 Friday morning.

Township police report that an Alexander Street resident returned home Monday night to discover his house had been entered.

Taken was an AM-FM stereo tape deck and two speakers valued at $290 and $15 cash. A window at the rear of the house had been broken between 9:30 a.m. and 8 in the evening.

THEFT REPORT

Four Bikes and a Moped. A $450 moped and four bicycles were reported stolen last week by Borough police.

The student-owned moped, locked, was taken Friday from the grounds of Princeton High School. An unlocked bicycle valued at $90 was taken Saturday from near the PHS football field and a 10-speed model was stolen Thursday afternoon while parked at Princeton High. It was locked, police said.

A Vandeventer Avenue resident reported the theft Friday of a black, 3-speed model from the rear of her house. It was valued at $50.

A New Brunswick resident lost $40 when his wallet was taken Monday from an unlocked locker in Dillon Gym on the university campus, and a Borough service station employee lost 22 tapes valued at $50 when his car, parked at the station, was entered.

A window on the driver's side had been broken to gain entry. An attempt had also been made to remove the car's cassette tape player.

A jacket valued at $90 was taken from a women's apparel shop on Nassau Street last week while the clerk was in the rear of the store. Township police report a $160 cassette tape recorder was stolen from a car parked in the Westminster Choir College lot. They believe a wire hanger was used to enter the locked car.

"A HARSH THEFT"

Delivery Boy Deceived. "I think this is rather a harsh theft because it involves a newspaper delivery boy," commented Chief Carnevale, as he described the theft by deception of an 11-year-old Borough resident.

The youth was collecting for his paper route, Chief Carnevale said, when he was approached by a man on Princeton Avenue who told him his regular paper manager was off and he was to turn over to him the money he had collected. The youth handed over $78 in cash and checks.

"I think it is a rather sad situation that even youngsters are fair game for the criminal element," said Chief Carnevale.

STREAKER TAKES STROLL

Past Library Window. Two female students were sitting in the library at Westminster Choir College last week shortly before noon when they noticed a man walk by the window.

A short while later they saw the same man walk past the window again only this time he was naked. A few minutes later, police report, he walked by the window again fully clothed.

The only description police have is of a man in his 20s with straight black hair and a two-to-three-day growth of beard.

REPORT DUE

From Superintendent. The annual report on instruction in Princeton's schools will be submitted to school board members by Superintendent Paul Houston in time for next Tuesday's November business meeting.

The meeting will be held at 8 in the conference room of the Valley Road building. The report is required each year under terms of the state's thorough-and-efficient education law. The annual report on Princeton's implementation of that law is also on Tuesday's agenda.

FRIENDS FORMED

To Boost Recreation. In recent years the Recreation Department has been unable to carry out some of its programs and improve its facilities because of the tightness of municipal budgets and the CAPS law which have held increases in expenditures well below the rise in costs due to inflation. No new programs have been put into effect for the past five years.

A group of citizens has organized as the Friends of Princeton Community Recreation to raise funds which could assure the Department and other recreational groups, at the discretion of the Trustees, the money to implement their activities. The organization has already received donations, including a grant from The Youth Fund, which may be directed toward equipment needs for cultural events as well as physical recreation activities.

The Board of Trustees of the Friends is made up of citizens who have been actively involved in Princeton projects. Officers are Sandy Bing, president; Betty Cleveland, vice-president; Christopher Tarr, secretary; John Dumont, treasurer. Trustees include Linda Corlette, Nancy Henkel, Anne Humes, Sam

PROGRAMS LISTED

By Watersheds Association. "Celebrating Nature With Your Child" is the title of a family event sponsored by the Hopewell Valley Regional School District's Environmental Education Program and the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association.

A specially-marked trail will be open at the Watershed's reserve Thursday and Friday, during the teachers' convention, from 9 to 3 and again on November 15 and 16. Parents and children are invited to take the trail where they can participate in several self-directing games and activities. Participants will be asked to use their senses in different ways leading to discoveries of nature's wonders.

Trail maps will be available as the Association's headquarters building, Titus Mill Road, Hopewell Township. For additional information call 737-3735.

The Watersheds Association will also hold a program called "Attracting Birds in Winter," which will be presented by program director Bill Anderson Friday at 9:30. All are welcome, and the fee is $1 for non-members.

MORE FOR SENIORS?

Rides Under Discussion. A possible expansion of the Crosstown 62 transportation service for elderly residents is on the agenda for this Wednesday's 8 p.m. Township Committee meeting in Township Hall. Expansion might include special transportation for shopping purposes, according to Administrator Joseph R. Nini. John McGee, of the Joint Advisory Committee on Transportation is expected to outline the proposal for Committee. He must then present the proposal to Borough Council.

Public hearing will be held on an amendment to the Township's cluster development ordinance. The amendment provides that open space in a cluster development of homes, be private space for owners of the houses, at least at first. The ordinance also sets up ways for the municipality to recover, if a home-owners association is in tax default.

Another proposal, that the open space required by the ordinance be a "meaningful" cluster, and not scattered snippets of land, has been held in abeyance for Planning Board comment.

The Township thought it would have to pay $2,800 toward the cost of the Edgerstone-Stockton traffic light in order to speed the project along. That turned out not to be necessary, so the appropriation will be repealed.

Committee will introduce an ordinance allowing replacement of the Balcort Drive sewer lift station. The Sewer Operating Committee has recommended the replacement, and it is in the capital budget.

In closed session, Committee will talk about acquisition of the Van Dyke Wight property.

PARENTS WEEKEND ST

At Lawrenceville. More than 700 parents of students at The Lawrenceville School will attend Parents Weekend on Friday and Saturday. They will meet the Head Master, Bruce McClellan, and their sons' masters in class conferences. They will dine with their sons in the Dining Center and attend the school play, "Dracula." Performances will be given on both Friday and Saturday at 8 in the Allan P. Kirby Arts Center.

There will be a session on college admissions led by Thomas W. Eglin, Dean of Students and Director of College Placement, and College Placement Advisors William C. Dickey and Robert C. Mellow. Dr. Thomas L. Evans, Medical Director, will meet with parents to discuss "Adolescent Needs."

On Saturday afternoon there will be a complete program of athletics against teams from The Hill School. Varsity and junior varsity soccer and varsity water polo games begin at 1. Varsity Football meets Hill at 2:15 and the cross country teams will run at 3.

Parents at Lawrenceville will hold a sale of Lawrenceville memorabilia, and the Book Exchange will have an Open House.

BOROUGH MAN CHARGED
With Assault and Battery. Roland Glover, 29, 34 Red Oak Row, has been charged with assault and battery of Deborah Glover of the same address.

Glover had to be forcibly removed from the victim, whom, police said, he was beating and choking, and handcuffed before being taken to headquarters. He is scheduled to appear in court Wednesday after being released on $100 bail.

Police responded in three patrol cars, after receiving a call that a woman was being beaten on William Street. Glover was charged by Sgt. Thomas Procaccino.

Uses Offensive Language. John Sica, 29 of Milltown, was arrested and charged last week with using offensive language. He is scheduled to appear in court here November 21.

Sica was arrested in Victor's Pizzeria on Nassau Street, after police received a call that he was allegedly drunk and being offensive to a female customer. Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli and Sgt. Timothy Huizing responded.

Juveniles Charged. Two Princeton juveniles, 14 and 16, were arrested by Township police last week in an area near the Graduate College and charged with possession of marijuana. They were turned over to the Township juvenile office for processing.

A 14-year-old Township youth was apprehended Friday and charged with shoplifting key chains from a display case in Center Stationers in the Princeton Shopping Center. He was also turned over to the juvenile officer, Det. Jerry Offredo.

WARM AND WET
November Weather Outlook. Warmer and wetter than normal weather is expected for New Jersey during November, according to Anthony Broccoli, meteorologist at Rutgers University's Cook College. "This represents a change from October, which was a cool, dry month, for the most part," he said.

Afternoon high temperatures in New Jersey during November generally range from near 50 in extreme northern portions of the state to the mid 50s in southern counties. Overnight lows near 30 are normal for North Jersey, with readings in the mid 30s in southern areas.

"Almost all areas of the state have already experienced freezing temperatures this season, and frosts will be common in

TO SELL CITRUS FRUIT

The annual citrus fruit sale for the benefit of American Field Service International Youth Exchange program will start this week under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. Lieske Wright and Mrs. Helen Gallagher. AFS will be taking orders for Texas Ruby Red grapefruit through Thanksgiving with delivery by truck from the Rio Grande Valley expected in mid-December. A 20-pound box of 18 to 20 tree-ripened grapefruit will be $7.

TO HEAR "BRENWOOD"

At Zoning Meeting. The Township Zoning Board will resume hearings on the Brenwood application when it meets in special session this Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Township Hall.

Brenwood had received zoning approval for construction of six apartment units on land near Ewing and State Road; however, a group of neighbors appealed the zoning decision to Township Committee and Committee sent the case back to the Zoning Board.

The case is the only item on Thursday's agenda. Hearings began at the Zoning Board's October 24 meeting, but were not completed before the board's 11 p.m. closing hour.

TV PROGRAM SUNDAY

On Paul Robeson. Princeton-born Paul Robeson will be the focus of an hour-long television special this Sunday from 1 to 2 p.m. on Channel 7, WABC-TV's "Like It Is" program.

"Paul Robeson, A Closer Look" follows an earlier award-winning documentary called "Paul Robeson, The Tallest Tree in Our Forest," which was shown three years ago and chronicled the political and professional life of the late black singer-actor-activist.

"Paul Robeson, A Closer Look" opens with a look at the early years with Robeson reminiscing on film about the role his father played in his life, the four straight years he won the oratorical contest at Rutgers University and his early attraction to spirituals. The program also concentrates on his later years and recaptures Robeson's vocal ability as he is seen singing spirituals and folk songs in countries throughout the world. He discusses his keen interest in the correlation between language and song and elaborates on the similarities between African folk songs and ethnic music around the globe.

Highlighted in "Paul Robeson, A Closer Look" is exclusive film footage taken in the mid-30s as well as the late 50s during his stay in England where he was interviewed about his life and his performances there as Othello.

TRENTON PAIR CHARGED

With Jewelry Possession. Two Trenton residents have been charged by Township police with burglary and possession of jewelry allegedly taken from a Hardy Drive home.

Bruce Caldwell, 22, and Daryl R. Forney, 20, were arraigned before Judge Phillip Carchman after their arrest and later remanded to Mercer County Jail to await Grand Jury action. They are being held in lieu of $5,000 bail each.

Police said they had jewelry valued at $1,725 in their possession at the time of their apprehension. It was

Testimonial Dinner Set

A testimonial dinner-dance in honor of former Sgt. Robert J. Anderson, who retired this summer after 32 years of service with the Borough police department, will be held Friday, December 7, at the Elks Club in Blawenburg. A cocktail hour will start at 6:30.

recovered and returned to the owners.

Police first received a call about a suspicious car in the Stuart Road area. Sgt. Michael Kopliner and Ptl. David Cromwell responded and stopped a car fitting the description.

While they were checking out the two occupants, police received a report that a home on Hardy Drive, its rear sliding glass door pried open, had just been entered and ransacked. "It was a good arrest," commented Lt. Jack Petrone. "It doesn't often turn out this way."

Attempted Burglary. There was an apparent attempted burglary early Sunday morning at an Olden Lane home.

An 11-year-old boy woke up and thought he heard footsteps downstairs in the kitchen area, police said. He went to the top of the stairs and peered down. Seeing the back of a person about six feet tall with Afro style hair and wearing dark clothing, he went to his mother's room. She called police at 5:31 but the intruder had fled before they arrived.

Entry is believed to have been through an unlocked door. Nothing appears to have been taken, police said.

There was also a possible attempted burglary of a home on Halsey Street.

The owner had been away and when he returned last week he found pry marks on the rear door. Police believe the home was not entered.

12 good reasons to buy our best-selling upholstery.

1. All you have to do is compare how our upholstery is made against other furniture costing even far more, and you'll know why ours is the best buy in town. To start, the frame is solid, kiln dried oak or maple for strength and to prevent warping.
2. All the joints are double doweled for extra rigidity, strength and durability.
3. The frame is screwed, glued and corner blocked to prevent cracking.
4. We use tempered steel sinuous springs attached front and back with special helical clips which keep the springs "springier" far longer.
5. What's more, these costly springs are used on the back as well as on the seat. When you sit down and lean back, you'll appreciate the difference in comfort.
6. We pad the exterior surfaces. The results? More comfort and more durability. Because fabric stretched directly over wood may stretch or sag. And it's a lot easier to puncture.
7. We use extra padding on the interior, too. So you get a feeling of luxurious ease even after hours of sitting.
8. The seat and back cushions are made of a core of polyurethane foam wrapped in Dacron polyester. Very comfortable. And with no tendency to sag or bunch up in spots.
9. The seat cushions have a higher proportion of foam because your weight is on them. The back, which should be softer for comfort, has more polyester.
10. Only double needle stitching is used. This special tailoring not only looks better, it wears far longer.
11. All fabrics are Scotchguarded* for protection against spills and stains.
12. Each piece is tagged, and individually signed by the craftsman who made it—your assurance of the highest possible quality. But the proof is in the sitting. So come in and plunk down. We don't think you'll ever stand for interior upholstery again.

One terrific reason to buy it now.

JOGATHON SATURDAY

To Aid Black Causes. The New Jersey Coalition of Black Student Organizations, the People's Front for the Liberation of Southern Africa, and International Freedom Mobilization will sponsor a jogathon Saturday in support of the peoples of Southern Africa.

The purpose of this run is to raise funds for humanitarian aid of the liberation struggles, anti-racism work in the New Jersey area, and anti-apartheid work here in Princeton.

Joggers, walkers, runners, and handicapped people are all invited to participate. Registration for the event will start at 11 at the Third World Center of Princeton.

University. All entrants must pay a $1 registration fee. Those who enter this event may do so with or without sponsors. Participants with sponsors are asked to inform them that the suggested minimum donation is .25 cents per mile covered on the course.

Winding through the campus and the town, the course will be approximately three and a half miles long. Participants, particularly those with sponsors, are asked to run as many miles as they can. Because eleven miles is the distance from Johannesburg to Soweto, there will be special recognition of those who cover that distance.

For more information, call Natalie Byfield, Third World Center, 86 Olden Street, 452-5494.

SCREENING OFFERED For Learning Difficulties. The Rock Brook School, a private school for children with communication disorders, has announced the appointment of Maryann P. Whitman as Coordinator of Outpatient Services.

Mrs. Whitman, who holds a B.A. degree from Rutgers University and a M.S. in Speech and Language Pathology from Columbia University, has been speech and language pathologist in the pre-school-kindergarten class at Rock Brook. She has also worked with the East Brunswick public schools program for the communication handicapped.

The School believes that early detection and remediation of speech and language disorders provides the child with the greatest opportunity for improvement. The pre-school screening program is designed to determine whether or not a child's speech and language skills are developing at the expected rate. Studies show that many poor readers are children who have failed to grasp language concepts normally acquired between the ages of 3-5.

The School feels it is important to afford each child the opportunity to participate in a speech and language screening program conducted by a certified speech and language pathologist. For more information about this screening program which can be conducted at individual schools call 466-2989.

'Buster' Dey, Friend to Many PJ&B Commuters As Conductor, Ends 37 Years of Train Service

The second half of that remarkable Tweedle-Dee, Tweedle-Dum conductor-trainman partnership that looked after commuters on the Dinky for so many years has retired.

There was a gala farewell party for the jovial conductor John Bancroft when he retired at the end of May, 1978, and now his partner, George N. Dey, better known as "Buster," has ended his days on the railroad. Mr. Dey was feted at "Bancroft's Bash for Buster" last Saturday -- a picnic at the Bancroft home in Mercerville.

NO LONGER A TICKET TAKER: George N. (Buster) Dey has retired after 37 years with the railroad, 26 of them with the 'Dinky.' Mr. Dey and his partner, John Bancroft, will be remembered by scores of commuters for the good-natured bantering and personal service with which they enlivened the daily run.

City -- two days before the plane carrying the noted bandleader back to the European front disappeared over the Atlantic Ocean. It was never found. There was the day when he watch Albert Einstein help a youngster do his math homework in books spread out on the hood of a car parked at the Princeton station.

Accepted by Commuters. And then there were the regular commuters. "You know," Mr. Dey says, "Princeton people with all their social prominence, were not easy people to associate with. They had their level and didn't accept anybody and everybody. But a large group made me feel I was accepted and I was elated by that."

Some of his warmest memories and favorite stories center around commuters such as Hack McGraw, Richard Paynter, Stanley Woodward, Jack Williams, Dean Mathey and Luther Eisenhart.

The team of Bancroft and Dey first worked together in 1944. "We both believed in the same way of discharging our duties," Mr. Dey says, "and we worked together exceptionally well. People were always very good to us, especially at Christmas."

He remembers the Christmas during the shortages of World War II when Mr. Bancroft wanted to give his son a Flexible Flyer sled and couldn't find one anywhere. Jack Williams, an executive with Bamberger's brought one home on the train for the boy and refused to accept payment for it. Another time the commuters passed the hat for a sick railroad employee and collected $400 for fuel and groceries.

When Mr. Dey first came on the PJ&B line in the early 50s, there used to be as many as 15-18 special trains coming in for football games, and the shuttle was a six-car operation with an engineman at each end bringing from 800 to 1,000 girls for the weekend. Disenchantment with Princeton football brought an end to his regular attendance at home games in 1974, but hasn't diminished his love for the University as a whole.

Friends have asked why he stayed on the Dinky line so long when there was more money to be made on the main line. His eyes glisten as he says, "I loved this place so much that I sat down with my wife one day and said, 'The only way I can be close to what I love is if I stay working here.'"

After years of working nights and a seven-day work week, the Deys are looking forward to taking a trip to New Orleans, and to doing things around their house in Rocky Hill.

Mr. Dey has a parting word about a better way to run a railroad. In his opinion, there are too few railroad-knowledgeable persons in supervising position, from the general managers level on up. "If these people would spend a little time on a train ride and see what people have to endure -- and the lack of courtesy!"

Commuters are the most beautiful people in the world, and if you can provide them with number one safety, then 100-mile an-hour speed and clean, prompt and courteous service, you could have all the passengers you want in the northeast corridor. This energy thing cannot be taken too seriously, and one of the key methods of transportation is the railroads."

The commuters he and Mr. Bancroft served so well for so long would no doubt agree.

Quiet Mischief Night--For a Change

Have the feeling mischief night was quieter than in previous years? You're right, according to Princeton police.

"It was extremely quiet both nights," said Lt. Jack Petrone in the Township. "The number of calls was at a minimum."

Township police had beefed up patrols which were out both nights from 6 to 10. "We were relieved that it was extremely quiet," said Lt. Petrone. There were no arrests in the Township.

One of the quietest Hallowe'en and mischief nights in recent years, was the assessment of Lt. John J. Bellow, the officer in charge in the Borough.

"The young people were extremely well-behaved," commented Chief Michael Carnevale. "It's very encouraging to see young people reach a point where they respect the property of others."

Borough police report four incidents of egg-throwing, one mailbox snapped off and toilet tissue throwing. George Nichols, 18, of Lawrenceville Road, Princeton, was arrested for exploding firecrackers on the Princeton High School lawn -- a violation of a state statute -- and a car parked at the rear of a John Street home had its windshield smashed.

The most serious incident, Chief Carnevale reported, was the arson of a huge, wooden jungle gym set in the Harrison Street playground. Three fire trucks and 35 firemen responded to a 10:08 p.m. call, but the entire structure was destroyed before the fire was extinguished.

sweaters, rare and curious old books, gourmet food, children's games -- this is Stuart Country Day School's Christmas Bazaar. The 17th Annual Bazaar will be held Saturday, December 1 from 10 to 5 at the school on Stuart Road.

The Bazaar features booths and boutiques selling crafts and stitchery made by Stuart parents, Christmas decorations, homemade pastries and bargains of all kinds. Outside vendors will also be present with hand-made wares for sale.

A cookbook, "Stuart Kitchen Secrets," a collection of international recipes contributed by Stuart parents, students and members of the religious community, will be for sale. Heading this project is Gabriella Marchetti, a gourmet cook and a seven-year Bazaar volunteer, who worked with Marie DiBianco and Cheryl Raywood.

During the day there will be a raffle of a Peugeot Moped and other prizes, the children's flea market and the Silent Auction. A Wine and Cheese Cafe will be another Bazaar feature.

Chris Leahy and Gail Magruder, Chairman and co-Chairman of the Bazaar, are coordinating parents and other volunteers who contribute their talents and handiwork. The advisory committee consists of Anne Boyd, Ruth Crowley, Gabriella Marchetti, Camille Mraz, Mary Murray and Ellen Tabell. Sister Elizabeth Shearman acts as liaison between Bazaar workers and the school. Treasurer is Carol Ann Fulmer and secretary is Betty Cooper.

SENIORS PLAN DINNER

For Thanksgiving. A Thanksgiving Dinner will be shared by the members of the Princeton Senior Citizens Club on Tuesday, November 20 at Princeton High School.

Cocktails will be served at 4:30 followed by dinner. The Thanksgiving meal will be prepared by Thomas Root, and the menu will include turkey, stuffing, potato, vegetable, cranberry sauce, rolls and butter, homemade pies and coffee and tea.

Transportation will be provided by the Princeton Regional Schools under the direction of the Recreation Department. Those seniors in need of transportation should call the Red Cross, 924-2404, to register. Bus routes will be drawn up by the Recreation Department, and those seniors that register for rides will be notified as to the location for pick-up.

All senior citizens residing in Princeton are invited by the Senior Citizens Club to join in the Thanksgiving feast. Cost of the dinner is $2.50, and reservations for the dinner may be made at the Recreation Department at 921-9480.

The bazaar will feature hand-made articles, a kiddie nook, baked goods, Christmas items, plants, white elephant surprises and many other things. A luncheon will also be served. The public is invited.

The monthly meeting of the auxiliary will be held on November 26 at 8.

for a fall program, and he did not have one. There was no follow-through to what he had proposed, and the classes we did have, had been suggested by other people."

Center directors receive $12,000 a year, and the Rev. Mr. Gipson says $24,000 would be needed for an experienced professional. Mr. Blackstone was hired in tandem with Tom Spann, a Seminary graduate whom the Center's board would have preferred. He was not available except on a temporary basis, and has since left Princeton.

The Center is an agency of the United Way and receives $45,000 a year from that source.

"When we asked Holly, we warned her, 'It's going to be tough,' " the Rev. Mr. Gipson said.

NUTRITION IS TOPIC
Of HHAPA Workshops. A "Food Awareness Day," designed to familiarize the public with better nutrition for optimum well-being, will be presented Saturday, November 10, from 9:30 to 6 by the Holistic Health Association at the Holiday Inn on Route 1.

The program will feature four speakers, David Singer, health and nutrition expert; Sheila Morgan, Gestalt therapist; Sandra Mennella, authority on natural foods, and Sat Jivan Kaur Khalsa who teaches nutrition classes in Manhattan.

Mr. Singer will speak on "How To Survive The American Diet," Ms. Morgan will discuss her "Junk-Food Enders" method, Ms. Menella will provide an answer to the food question, "Are You Confused?" and Kaur Khalsa will speak on "Conscious Awareness of Food and Its Preparation."

For more information, call the HHAPA office, 924-8580, or write HHAPA at 360 Nassau Street.

NEW DIRECTOR NAMED

For Robeson Center. Six months ago, when Rod Blackstone came to the Paul Robeson Community Center as its fifth director, he declared "I guarantee we're not dead!" But today, Mr. Blackstone is "dead" - fired from his job by the Center's board.

In his place is Princeton native Holly Rhodes Thomas, a Rutgers graduate who now lives in New Brunswick. She is keeping Mr. Blackstone's International Folk Dancing and the Martial Arts Programs; Slimnastics and Yoga are in question because few have signed up. Other programs outlined with such enthusiasm by Mr. Blackstone in the spring, "never materialized," Mrs. Thomas said this week.

"We want to make sure new programs are successful: planned, organized and well-publicized," she emphasized.

This Wednesday evening, there will be Open House for parents. A new Wednesday night program developed in conjunction with Community House, will be tutorial and recreational, with films. A Saturday program, also with Community House, is under discussion. Community House involves Princeton University students in tutoring work with Paul Robeson Center participants.

A Cub Scout group, which parents have said they would like, is another new program. Parents are invited to the Center next Tuesday to discuss a Cub Scout Den.

According to the Rev. Leon Gipson, head of the Center's board, Mr. Blackstone was fired because he was "incompetent."

"He did not co-operate with us," the Rev. Mr. Gipson said. "We asked him in September

HIGHLIGHTS

(The following information was researched and written by members of the Regional Schools PTO Council, and the opinions expressed are not those of TOWN TOPICS.)

PRINCETON HIGH SCHOOL: FRESHMAN DISCUSSIONS

The Peer Group Training Project at PHS, a state-funded program designed to help freshmen make the transition from middle school to high school more positive, is utilizing the talents of twelve upperclass students. Under the supervision of Sharon Powell, Corner House counselor; Marla Brassard, PHS psychologist and Dick Saldon, PHS guidance counselor, these students are leading freshmen groups once a week in discussions of peer pressures.

Upperclass leaders, freshmen and their parents met on Oct. 22 for the project's first parent-student gathering. After a description of the program, students and parents joined in a "boundary-breaking" exercise which encouraged participants to listen and to respect differing attitudes and opinions.

The enthusiastic response from both students and parents may lead to the consideration of an expanded program for freshmen next fall.

BOOKS, BOOKS AT JOHNSON PARK

In preparation for National Book Week, Nov. 12-16, Mrs. Lawton's art students at JP are decorating the school with posters reminding everyone that "Any Time is a Good Time to Read." Book markers bearing that slogan are also being created in art class and will be given out at the annual Book Swap.

Mrs. Shteir's first grade may be beginners in the realm of reading and writing, but they had no difficulty producing their own "Nonsense Alphabet Book." Each child was assigned a letter of the alphabet to be the subject of a nonsense sentence and illustration. The "first printing" included copies for everyone in the class and a few for the library.

In addition to the children's activities, many adults in a variety of book-related professions will be visiting JP to talk about their specialties. Dudley Carlson, Children's Librarian at the Princeton Public Library, will speak to fourth and fifth graders about what it is like to be a librarian. Sue and George Fremon, who wrote and published "Why Trade It In?", a book on preventive maintenance for cars, will discuss the mechanics of writing, publishing and marketing one's own book. Chuck McVicker, an illustrator who lives in Princeton, is now working on a pop-up book about Buck Rogers and will demonstrate how that kind of illustration is done. The challenge of reading when the reader is blind will be Ruth Bogia's topic. From her experience as a volunteer at Recording for the Blind, she will explain the Braille system and will show samples of the Braille alphabet, a Braille typewriter and some books.

And not to be forgotten in the "how to" of books is the reason behind it all, the stories. Anna Lincoln, author of "Yesterdays," will present children's stories from China and Russia to the third grade, while Carol Himmler, librarian at RIVERSIDE who spent the summer in Scandinavia, will give a joint assembly program for RS and JP, telling tales of trolls, and other stories from that part of the world.

UN DAY AT COMMUNITY PARK

CP celebrated UN Day with a Folk Dance Assembly under the skillful leadership of folk dance teacher Garry Kaplan. The students, teachers and some helping parents learned that dance can be a communal experience as well as an insight into a foreign culture as they tried a Japanese Miners' dance, a Greek Snake dance and a Bulgarian Peasants' dance.

Parents continued the celebration that evening with a Bring-a-Dish International Candlelight Dinner and an hilarious money-raising auction run by Harry and Julie Clark. Such unusual items as "A Day on Barnagat Bay" or a hair-do by a professional, along with more traditional bric-a-brac, raised over $500 for the school's Assembly Fund. The festive atmosphere was enhanced by numerous displays contributed by CP parents from many lands.

LITTLEBROOK: JAPAN AND NUTRITION

In Mrs. Saldick's kindergarten class they are singing "Mary sanu hitsu gee," the Tune is familiar and the words continue, in English, "Its fleece is white as snow." These five-year-olds are learning about Japan from Mutsu Sumi, a kindergarten teacher from Tokyo who visits them weekly to share her experiences.

In Mrs. Geary's third grade, the focus is on healthy snacks as an important part of good nutrition. The class took a one mile walking trip to the Whole Earth Center and watched freshly shelled peanuts made into peanut-butter and bread baked from scratch, starting with the grinding of flour from whole wheat berries. Classmate Dylan Bacon's father, the store manager, sent each student home with a sample of a nutritious snack of fried fruit, nuts and seeds. The science unit on health will close with a question and answer visit from a local pediatrician, Dr. Allen Schneider.

Some Student Comments

the most satisfying effort I have ever made for myself course presentation and material are of such high caliber thoroughly enjoyable. I found myself stretching to absorb everything.

best way to bridge the generation gap I've found my mind is bent out of shape and I'm exhausted, but I've loved every minute of the course and can't wait to start next semester.

filled me in on new developments in my field that twenty years ago I would have never thought possible. Faculty and students have incredible energy and imagination.

tear drives you. And pride. These kids are so bright. I thought at first how can I ever hope to compete, but you know, even though (or maybe because) I'm in the older generation I found I could add experience and perspective to discussions. My mind was rusty, but it still worked.

Veterans' Day Observance

Veterans' Day, November 11, a day set aside to honor those who served the nation in times of war, will be observed by Princeton Post 76, American Legion, with services in Princeton and in West Windsor.

On Sunday at 11, the time of the signing of the World War I armistice, the Legion will hold its annual service at the Monument, Nassau and Mercer Streets. Prayers will be offered, there will be a salvo from the firing squad and taps will be sounded. The service in West Windsor will follow at the Monument, Village and Mill Roads, at 11:45.

The public is invited to join in at both locations. Commander Haupt of Post 76 suggests that Veterans' Day gives "each of us a chance to reflect on the role played by our servicemen and women, especially those who served during the Vietnam conflict, in helping keep our nation as the leader of the free world."

A Look at the Future.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Three cheers to the Arts Council for dreaming up the Hallowe'en Parade and using the Playhouse as the scene for the final judging. It certainly was heartwarming to see a community effort, right in the center of town, and in that marvelous structure.

With all the lights on and people milling around, the building was suddenly alive. I could picture in my mind other uses -- symphony concerts, choral groups, ballet -- the very things the Save the Playhouse group has been talking about. I hope they succeed and we can have another Hallowe'en Parade -- and lots more things -- in the Playhouse in the years to come.

$10,000 Raised by CROP Walk.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The annual Princeton CROP Walk for Hunger, held October 21, was a great success. Palmer Square swung to the very professional strains of the Princeton High School Studio Band as the 350 walkers and a crowd of onlookers gathered for the 10 mile Walk. The Rev. Blain Aldridge of Nassau Presbyterian Church gave an encouraging address and by 1:30 the walkers were on their way.

An estimated $10,000 was made from the Walk and will be sent to CROP and other designated programs, such as CARE, for the relief of disaster stricken areas and to further self-help programs in underdeveloped countries.

Many thanks to all the answered our door, and here were four boys. When they said "Trick or treat," I gave them the little candies we were giving out, and I said, just teasing, "I'll trade you these for a Mary Jane candybar."

Well, around 9 o'clock, the doorbell rang again, and here were the same boys. They handed me a double handful of Mary Janes!

"We think grown-ups ought to have fun on Hallowe'en, too," they said.

It was just so wonderful.

DEVELOPMENT STALLED?

State Claims Land. Plans by William L. Bamberger for a $40 million complex of shops, offices and hotel space near the Princeton Junction railroad station may have gone off the track indefinitely.

The state Department of Transportation wrote the West Windsor township Zoning Board last week to state that the DOT owns the station property and isn't interested in selling. Mr. Bamberger's option to buy expired March 31, 1979. John Jamieson, deputy DOT commissioner, said the department wants to do an eight-month study to decide on the "time and place" of development near the Princeton Junction railroad station.

"Bamberger, as well as other firms," will be invited to submit proposals when the study has been completed. Mr. Jamieson said, in a letter to the Zoning Board dated October 30.

Mr. Bamberger was before the board asking an extension of his use variance so that he could have more time to find financial backing. His attorney, John Dimon, said his client had been negotiating with Penn Central trustees for part of the property owned by the once bankrupt railroad. Penn Central's director of leased property and special sales, Joseph Supon, had declared that Penn Central planned to sell its interest in the land to Mr. Bamberger.

In 1977, when Mr. Bamberger made his initial application to the West Windsor Zoning Board, he said that only six acres were owned by the DOT and 31 by Penn Central. He also said that both had consented to his application.

Joseph Stonaker, attorney for the West Windsor board, said that since ownership was unresolved, the Board could only deny the Bamberger request for extension, or accept a request to withdraw. Mr. Bamberger announced that he would withdraw, temporarily.

CELLAR TO BE SOLD

Ajamian the Buyer. The Cellar liquor store, 174 Nassau Street, is in the process of being sold to James S. (Jimmy) Ajamian of Skillman.

Mr. Ajamian, the owner for 2 1/2 years of Towne Wine & Liquors in the Montgomery Center, Rocky Hill, has signed a contract to purchase the Nassau Street liquor store from the 6 1/2 Charlton Corporation, whose principals are attorneys John J. McCarthy and A.C. Reeves Hicks and realtor Robert Dougherty.

Mr. Ajamian is scheduled to appear before Borough Council Thursday and if Council approves the transfer of the liquor license -- and Mr. Ajamian said that he doesn't anticipate any delay -- he plans to take over the operation of the Cellar on Monday.

"I thought I was ready to retire," he said. But after one and a half years away from the liquor business, he finds, "I'm not ready. I'm too young."

Other than to rename the store Princeton Wine & Liquors, he plans no immediate changes. Ed Clobossey, well-known in the Princeton community and an expert on wines, will remain as manager.

What he is faced with, Mr. Ajamian says, is a problem common to a lot of liquor stores in the area -- a lack of space. "What I can do about it remains to be seen," he says, but he adds that his ultimate goal is to provide one of the best-looking liquor stores in Princeton.

In addition to the retail liquor business, Jimmy -- as he is known to all his friends -- has one other overriding interest. Flying.

An ex-Navy pilot, he has kept active in flying for 36 years. His present plane, a Cessna 210 Turbo Centurion, is housed at Mercer Airport. "The top of the line," he says proudly.

AWARD WON

For Restaurant Design. Short and Ford, architects, were honored for their design of the new Rivers Edge Restaurant in Lambertville at the annual convention of the New Jersey Society of Architects in Atlantic City. Charles Farrell, the project designer accepted the award for the firm, and Jeremiah Ford received the award on behalf of Merrill Zinder, who will operate the restaurant.

The restaurant planned for the Lambertville riverside will be the third transformation the site has seen. Originally built as a grist mill in 1842, the building was altered by Stella Dallas, of radio fame, 100 years later to house a restaurant which operated successfully until it burned a few years ago.

The legacy of those two earlier buildings is a rectangle of stone walls by the river's edge.

The architects have planned dining space for 260 within the existing stone walls, plus banquet facilities, a private dining room, bar, and service wing, covering approximately twice the square footage of the original stone shell.

Short and Ford have previously won seven national design awards. This New Jersey Society of Architects "Proposed Project commendation" is the first such award that the Princeton based firm has received.

Merrill Zinder, the new operator of the Rivers Edge, is also the owner of Good Time Charley's restaurant in Kingston, Charley's Brother in Hopewell, Charley's Other Brother in Mt. Holly and Charley's Uncle in East Brunswick. Short and Ford are the architects for the current expansion of Good Time Charley's and recently completed for Mr. Zinder a restaurant in Mt. Holly known as Muffins. Muffins is operated by Mr. Zinder's son, Marc, a recent graduate of the Cornell Restaurant and Hotel school.

Financing of Study of Ethical Problems Facing Medicine, Law And Allied Fields Occupies Director of Hastings Center Here

"I'm a door-opener for the top man," grins David Reeves, describing his new work as Director of Development for The Hastings Center: the Institute of Society, Ethics and the Life Sciences that has appeared more and more in the news as doctors, lawyers and the public become more and more concerned about ethics.

After David Reeves has opened the door of this corporation or that, Daniel Callahan, director, or Willard Gaylin, president, of The Hastings Center, cross the threshold and make the pitch.

"There is no 'bottom line' or publicity for a corporation in giving to Hastings," Mr. Reeves begins. "The corporation is contributing to the richness of the common wealth -- giving something the world would be a poorer place without."

Founded ten years ago, the Hastings Center (from Hastings-on-Hudson, New York, its home base) has three goals: to contribute toward solution of the ethical problems in medicine, biology and the behavioral sciences; help universities and professional schools develop ethics courses; help public officials -- when asked to do so -- cope with public policy, laws, and decision-making.

Long Range Goals. "My job," explains Mr. Reeves, from the desk in his tiny office at 11 Charlton, "is to work on general-purpose, long-range financing in the corporate sector, the kind of thing that gives Hastings the freedom to address areas that may not be fruitful immediately."

For example, he recalls with a chuckle that, many years ago, the Hastings staff was exploring the ethics of this thing called DNA research and another thing called psycho-surgery.

"People thought Dan Callahan was crazy, out on some lunatic fringe! Now look at both those fields!"

This month there will be a Hastings Center meeting on Occupational health. Sounds straight-forward: black lung disease, lung problems of asbestos workers and so on.

"...but also, the possible and Gardens; buyers and sellers can purchase the Home Protection Plan and numerous booklets and consumer-oriented materials printed by Better Homes and Gardens magazine are available through the Tighue organization.

A feature of the Princeton office will be the showing of Princeton area neighborhoods and available homes on closed-circuit color TV. Mr. Tighue said "a color videotape will be taken of all Tighue listings, as well as a sampling of other properties available for sale in the Princeton area. Transferees and other newcomers to the area can receive a complete orientation and briefing regarding home purchase possibilities without leaving our Princeton office," he said.

PROGRAMS AVAILABLE

In Alcoholism Counseling. Alcoholism, particularly as it affects job performance or family relationships, has long been an area of particular concern for the Family Service Agency of Princeton.

Family Service is a non-profit, United Way supported personal counseling center that has worked with a number of employers to provide counseling service for the troubled employee. The agency provides outpatient alcoholism counseling, as well

"I GOT HOOKED": That's the way David Reeves, new director of development for the Hastings Institute, describes his enthusiasm for the goals of the Institute: to work toward solving the ethical problems facing the behavioral sciences, medicine, law, biology.

effect on health when corporations move people around all the time." Mr. Reeves says, "This is an emerging field, one that hasn't been explored."

A broad survey is now under way on "Death, Suffering and Well-Being," what Mr. Reeves calls "bringing humanity to intensive care, when you're all hooked up to machines."

Research on Violence. Under a grant from the National Science Foundation, Hastings' Behavior Control group is examining case studies of research on the control of violence -- the legitimacy of using scientific knowledge to control violence, and the ethical and political problems that use raises.

There is also increasing demand from the business community to involve Hastings, perhaps in the concept of 'whistle-blowing,' in instances where employees call public attention to unethical business practices.

"Ethics crosses all fields," Mr. Reeves observes, "You may find a doctor who says well, a certain problem is medical and nobody but a doctor could understand it, but whether it's medicine or law or business or government, the principles are the same."

Fellows of the Institute -- including Nobel laureates

James D. Watson and David Baltimore -- come from many disciplines and so does the staff.

Academia Not For Him. David Reeves himself started out in history (Class of '48, Princeton). A year in Toronto at the Pontifical Institute of Mediaeval Studies showed him that academia was for somebody else and he went into publishing, where he spent 20 years.

A Princeton resident since 1950, he has been known most recently in the business community as an associate with the Henderson real estate firm, and he is still with Henderson on a limited basis.

He joined Hastings because many years ago, his firm had published a book by Daniel Callahan. Earlier this year, when Mr. Reeves and his wife, Anne, were staying near the Duke University campus during the convalescence from heart surgery of their son, Sam, they encountered Mr. Callahan at a Bioethics Symposium. The threads of their long-ago friendship were easy to gather up again, and Mr. Callahan suggested that Mr. Reeves might be a good director of development.

"I spent only a day hearing about Hastings," he recalls, "and I got hooked."

SAVE YOUR OLD NEWSPAPERS FOR RECYCLING

AMERICA'S GETTING INTO TRAINING.

This year, a lot of you got your travel plans into shape the easy way. You sat back in a plush Amtrak seat. And got into training.

THIS WAS THE YEAR THAT WAS.

After a solid year of proposals and counterproposals, hearings and debates—and a summer's worth of energy crises—Congress established guidelines under which trains would be kept. And for the first time gave Amtrak the long-term support we've needed to see those plans through to reality.

But really, it goes deeper than that. Because this was the year America took a long, hard look at its passenger trains. And decided to keep them. Improve them. And rely on them. Now it's up to us. And we pledge to improve the quality of service and performance.

INTRODUCING A NEW AMTRAK.

Today, there's a new route map. It's more efficient than before; yet, with the changes, Amtrak still serves 503 cities and towns in 44 states, border to border, ocean to ocean. Including yours.

More importantly, it's a passenger rail system that's here to stay. While eliminating some routes, we've added others and are improving the kinds of services on still more. We'll continue to build our system around you, your needs and your interests.

WHY WASTE ENERGY?

Yours or America's. The day when America could depend almost exclusively on the auto is fast disappearing. If it hasn't already. Trains are a real alternative—at their best when moving people between large cities and smaller ones.

This kind of transportation is exactly what America needs. And it's exactly what we do.

VISIT OUR NEW CAR SHOWROOM.

Come down to your local station. In most areas of the country, you'll find our new Amfleet cars. With wide, reclining seats, wall-to-wall carpeting and drop-down trays, they rival the best in the world. Today, two of every three Amtrak trains operate with Amfleet or equally modern Turboliners and Metroliner equipment. Expect to see more comfortable new cars in the years ahead.

On our Western routes, you'll soon find our new Superliners starting service this month and next. These exciting double-decker long-distance trains bring new coach, dining and sleeping car luxury to some of the most beautiful parts of our country. 284 of these cars will complete the fleet over the next 12 to 18 months.

On other routes, especially long-distance Eastern trains, new cars will be ordered soon. In the meanwhile, we're bringing the best of the West to the East—with a stopover in Beech Grove, Indiana.

IN BEECH GROVE, MINOR MIRACLES PERFORMED WHILE YOU WAIT.

At our service facility there, we're taking these solid cars and rebuilding them from the wheels up. Once stripped to their frames and chassis, we replace antiquated steam systems (that's right, steam!) with reliable electric air conditioning and heating. We put in new interiors—new everything.

Our people innovate as they go, and pass on their knowledge to our other repair facilities through a videotape training program originated and created right there. These people best reflect the growing attitude you'll find among all Amtrak employees—proud, productive and in tune with our bright future.

CARS ARE JUST ONE OF OUR CONCERNS.

When you take a train—or a bus or plane—you should arrive at your destination when the schedule said you would. We agree. We also agree Amtrak's on-time performance could be much better. And we're doing something about it.

Part of the solution is us. Getting reliable equipment. And maintaining it so it won't break down en route.

Some of the solutions are in the hands of others. All of Amtrak's trains outside the Boston-Washington Northeast Corridor, after all, are dispatched and controlled by private railroads over rails owned by them. If the tracks are allowed to deteriorate our trains can't keep their schedules. Clearly, if the railroads don't work together with Amtrak, our trains will be delayed. It's one of our most important challenges.

SO IS YOUR COMFORT AND CONVENIENCE.

An ill-kept station is no way to begin or end a trip. That's why we're actively renewing or rebuilding stations. We've also expanded our ticketing services, from the reservation agents you speak to on the phone—with their computer consoles that give you accurate information at the touch of a button—to the variety of fares and packages they can offer you to save you money. And because we believe strongly in an intermodal public transportation system, we're making our schedules work harder, so you can connect with buses, for instance, to continue your trip when necessary.

WE'RE GOING TO GET YOU INTO TRAINING.

There are no two ways about it. Amtrak management is going to get you on board and keep you coming back to our trains. And we're going to do it with an aggressive, vital, innovative commitment to you, the riding public. That means everyone, from our reservation and station agents to our on-board service personnel, and private railroad employees like engineers and conductors.

They're proud and dedicated people. Together, we promise to give you the first-class rail system you deserve. And, as we enter a new decade, the system you need. Welcome aboard.

KENNAN TO SPEAK

At Trinity Forums. George F. Kennan, professor emeritus at the Institute for Advanced Study, will be the speaker this Sunday and next at the open forum at 10:15 at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street. His topic will be the arms race.

A documentary film, "Survival... Or Suicide," produced by the American Committee on East-West Accord of which Prof. Kennan is a co-chairman, will be shown this week. The film is on the strategic nuclear arms race, national security, the SALT process and the role of the U.S. Senate in treaty ratification. Prof. Kennan will begin to discuss the film this Sunday and continue discussion the following week.

Prof. Kennan entered the Foreign Service upon graduation from Princeton University in 1925. He was the administrator in charge of the U.S. Embassy in Berlin when Hitler declared war and interned him and the staff. He was the first diplomat the U.S. sent to the Soviet Union in 1932, and his eight years in Russia culminated in his Ambassadorship.

He has been the Ambassador to Yugoslavia and has served as former head of the State Department Policy Planning Staff. He retired from the Foreign Service in 1953 to become a member of the Institute for Advanced Study and has taught at Princeton and the University of Chicago.

The American Committee on East-West Accord which he is co-chairman of with John K. Galbreath and Donald Kendall is an independent educational organization aimed at reducing tensions between the U.S. and the Soviet Union through balanced and verifiable arms control treaties, non-strategic trade and cultural and scientific exchanges.

RELIGION AND SCIENCE

Focus of Conference. Viktor E. Frankl, founder of logotherapy, the "third Vienna school of psychiatry," will speak Friday at 8:30 in the Woodrow Wilson School auditorium on the Princeton University campus. His lecture, "The Place of Meaning and Humanness in a Scientific and Technological World," is part of the University Chapel Conference on the Spiritual Life and the Natural Sciences.

The conference, which is open to the public, will "analyze the religious roots of modern science, discuss the scientific study of religion, and examine the relevance and value of the spiritual life in a scientific and technological world," according to Peter Perry, a graduate student in physics who is the prime mover behind the conference.

Four other visiting scholars will participate in the conference. It will begin at 1:30 on Friday, with Ernan McMullin, professor of philosophy at Notre Dame University, lecturing on religion and the origins of modern science. Edward Tiryakian, professor of philosophy at Duke University, will follow at 3:30 with a discussion on sociology and religion. Mr. Frankl's lecture is the third session in the conference.

On Saturday, the conference will reconvene at 9 to hear "Reflections of a Working Scientist" from Donald MacKay, professor of communication and neuroscience at the University of Keele (England). Frankl, MacKay, McMullin and Tiryakian will join Stanley Jaki, professor of history and philosophy of science at Seton Hall University, in a plenary panel discussion at 10:45.

The theme of the conference will be carried throughout the weekend when Mr. MacKay joins Dean of the Chapel Ernest Gordon in a dialogue sermon in the chapel on Sunday at 11. Mr. Jaki will conclude the series of events with a lecture, "Religion and Science: The Cosmic Connection," on Monday at 8.

All of the sessions, with the exception of Frankl's lecture and the dialogue sermon, will be held in 10 McCosh Hall. For further information, call the office of the dean of the chapel, 452-3047.

ORGANIST TO PLAY

In Concert Sunday. Concert organist Charles X. Hurst of 17 Gordon Way will perform Sunday at 3 at the First United Methodist Church, 15 South Broad Street, Trenton. He will play works of Bach, Arne, Franck, Brahms, Ives, Langlais and Dupre.

The organ at First United Methodist Church suffered water damage during the past winter from snow melting from the roof and leaking into the pipe chambers. Proceeds from this recital will defray the costs of repair as well as contribute to the general improvement of the organ.

TWO TALKS LISTED

By Ecumenical Council. The Rev. James E. Loder, professor of Christian Education at Princeton Theological Seminary, will speak on "Human Development" and "Development of Faith" on two Sunday evenings, November 11 and November 18, at 8 at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church.

The lectures, which are sponsored by the Ecumenical Council of Women, are open to the public without charge. They will be followed by a discussion period and refreshments.

The Ecumenical Council of Women was formed this year by Christian women from several different religious traditions who have united to sponsor a year-long program that includes prayer, study, discussion and worship. Any women taking part in the program may consider herself a member of the Council. Full or partial participation in any of the series is invited. There is no admission charge for any of the events.

Living room, dining area, kitchen, bedroom, study, and bath are on the first floor; 2 bedrooms and bath on the second. Mature landscaping on a nice lot backed by woods. Some tender loving care is needed, but if it weren't, the price would be considerably higher.

PRINCETON COUNTRY ESTATE Known to many as the Van Dyke White home, this very special colonial, built in 1910 and renovated in 1977, is one of Princeton's most unusual properties. Nestled into large trees, pine groves and unusual shrubs, next to fields planted with daffodils and peonies, the house, the barn, the carriage shed all invite you to stay. Formal diners have a view of the side gardens through the bay window, while more informal meals can be eaten in the completely modern kitchen sitting in another bay overlooking a pine grove. In addition, there is a family room, guest bath downstairs, charming corner master bedroom with floor to ceiling windowed bay and full bath, two more large corner bedrooms, another full bath, maid's room or study and backstairs between the first and second floor. Walk up to the dormered attic and you will see the expansion possibilities. Shown by appointment at your convenience. $265,000

Karl D. Pettit, a Happy Man at 90 Because Years Ago He Sold 7,850 Shares of IBM Which Would Now Be Worth over $2 Billion

Like many a person with a keen mind and a storehouse of memories, Karl Dravo Pettit is writing his autobiography.

Mr. Pettit turned 90 on Election Day and has a full life as an investment adviser and head of a family now numbering 76. The title of the book is "Lucky Miss! How I Almost Became the Richest Man in the World," and thereby hangs the tale that is upmost in Mr. Pettit's mind.

As a young man studying mechanical engineering at Cornell University and expected to enter the family-owned construction firm, Dravo Company in Pittsburgh after graduating in 1912, Mr. Pettit courted a young lady in Dayton, O. named Miriam Thomas. At the same time her sister Olive was being wooed by one Thomas J. Watson, destined to become famous as the president and guiding force behind the phenomenal growth of IBM.

Neither man married either of the sisters, but a strong bond developed between them. "Watson was a great big tall guy," Mr. Pettit recalls. When he said, "Karl, you're made to order for entrepreneurial sales," and urged the younger man to enter a sales training program he ran at National Cash Register in Dayton, it was impossible to resist.

Early Purchase of IBM Stock. He showed his aptitude by graduating number one in the course. At the same time, respect and admiration for the business acumen of his teacher grew. When Mr. Watson left National Cash Register to take over a little company called Computing, Tabulating and Recording, Mr. Pettit began buying stock in the small firm, which changed its name in 1924 to International Business Machines.

"Watson was the smartest man I've ever known," Mr. Pettit says, acknowledging that by the mid-1920's he and his wife Estelle had quietly accumulated enough of the stock to become the largest shareholders. Of the 69,000 shares of Computing, Tabulating and Recording then outstanding, the Pettits owned 7,850 shares, or more than 10 percent of the company.

Mr. Watson was "infuriated," Mr. Pettit recalls, when he learned that his former protege was the largest shareholder in his company. For two years, Mr. Watson and his associates put pressure on the Pettits to diversify their holdings. "These big shots would take me out to lunch, see, and urge me to sell," Mr. Pettit recalls.

Finally he acquiesced, and by 1928 had sold the entire holding. "I never touched IBM after that," he says, although he successfully placed clients of his own Karl D. Pettit Company in the stock.

A Lucky Man. The story ends with a visit by Thomas Phelps, Princeton resident and head of research at Scudder, Stevens and Clark, to Mr. Pettit at his office in 1973. In the course of the conversation, Mr. Phelps asked Mr. Pettit how much the IBM stock would have been worth had he held onto it. After an associate had done some calculating and presented the figure, $2 billion, 350 million, Mr. Phelps jumped up from his chair and clapped Mr. Pettit on the back.

"You are the luckiest man, the luckiest man in the world," he exclaimed, and proceeded to remind his astonished listener of the well-publicized miseries and sorrows that plague the lives of millionaires. "The more I thought about it, the more I realized he was right. That day changed my life," says Mr. Pettit, who has worked out his own equation for personal success, Love Plus Achievement Equals Happiness.

Mr. Pettit has had a large measure of all three. From National Cash Register he went to Thompson Press and Manufacturing in New York City as sales manager and treasurer and was involved in large war-time contracts. When that company was sold, he founded American Cuptor Corp., with Mr. Watson as chairman of the board and himself as president. The company was involved in financing, promotion and invention.

With the Frigidaire Division of General Motors, he invented the "Oasis" water-cooler, the first to incorporate a small electric refrigerator inside the unit. The idea was later expanded into a vending machine from which soft drinks were dispensed. Mr. Pettit also invented improvements in automobile engine cylinders to eliminate wear and tear from the piston.

Inventor, Too. American Cuptor merged with Greist Manufacturing of New Haven in 1929, and he moved to Wall Street with the research department of Carreau & Snedeker. In 1932, he founded his own investment company, Karl D. Pettit & Co., where he remained for 45 years until retirement in 1977. He also founded the Knickerbocker Fund, a mutual balanced fund, and was one of the founders of the Mutual Fund Institute.

His main business office was at 20 Exchange Place overlooking New York harbor and the Statue of Liberty, with branch offices here at 4 Nassau Street and in Chicago, Toledo, and Los Angeles. He was a pioneer, he says, in stock market research that combined cycles and timing with the more traditional balance sheet and fundamentals approach.

He had charts from ceiling to floor, he recalls, and followed many theories in market psychology. "You've got to know when to buy," he says, proud of the fact that he "caught the top of the market in 1937 right on the 'schnozzola'."

He also feels that to be successful in managing money one must approach the stock market "with a complete spirit of humility. You must take orders from the market, let the market tell you, not the other way around."

The Pettit family traces its roots to England of the Norman Conquest, as does the Fitch family of Estelle Pettit. Pettits first settled in Connecticut in 1632, later moving to Long Island, then to New Jersey and Pennsylvania and to Ohio. It was a Dravo ancestor whom Lafayette visited in Pittsburgh and who bought land close to Fort Pitt which became known as the Golden Triangle, a highly valuable piece of property in the center of Pittsburgh.

Clarence Pettit, Karl's father, built up a family wholesale produce business and then invested in large landholdings in Pittsburgh, Virginia and Princeton. Cherry Hill, the 22-room home on Ridgeview Road in which Karl and Estelle Pettit raised their seven children from 1924 on, was originally a summer home belonging to Clarence.

Princeton Land Owner. Following his father's example, Karl Pettit began buying land in Princeton, until in 1966 he owned some 705 acres. He advised his good friend and fellow commuter Dean Mathey to do the same, and says that at one point the two men held title to nearly half the acreage in the Township. Today his portion consists of 232 acres in several parcels in the Cherry Valley Road area, held in a joint venture called Gibbs Hill.

Mr. Pettit is as proud of his progeny as he is of his forebears. The seven boys, including three sons-in-law, all served in World War II or in the Korean conflict. All seven children have remained married to their original spouses, although divorce has developed for two grandchildren. In 1975, Mr. Pettit began a family newsletter that goes out to the clan twice a year.

Mr. Pettit pays tribute to Estelle, his wife of nearly 66 years, describing her as "a ball of fire, a good team player." Mrs. Pettit will be 87 on December 1 and is as trim, alert, active and well-groomed as her husband. A former president of the league of Women Voters and former chairman of the Ladies Golf Group at Springdale, where she won a number of trophies, she retains her keen interest in bridge and still gives large pre-Yale football game luncheons.

Oldest Commuter. Since he stopped commuting in 1977 at age 87, Mr. Pettit has enjoyed Old Guard meetings and luncheons at the Nassau Club. Time is also spent in organizing the autobiography, which will be liberally sprinkled with the names of industrialists and bankers with whom he was associated throughout a long business career. They include Charlie Schwab of Bethlehem Steel, "Boss" Kettering of General

"All the Way Home" is a brilliantly written. Playwright lovely, rich, warm, sad-funny, Tad Mosel has made the most large-small play, and it is hard to imagine a better production of it than the current one by the McCarter Theatre Company.

This Pulitzer-prize (1960) play, based on James Agee's Pulitzer-prize novel, "A Death in the Family," has 18 characters, and all 18 are perfectly cast -- from small boys to a 103-year-old great-great-grandmother -- and all creatively, sharply, convincingly acted. Director Kenneth Frankel has given imaginative attention to the tiniest details without neglecting the deep emotional currents that give this plotless family drama its strong, if sometimes slow, forward surge.

News Of The THEATRES

Like most family stories, this one, which covers four days in 1915, is simple outside, complex underneath, full of conflicts and surprises. Jay Follet has married Mary Lynch and they have a wonderfully droll young son whom the neighborhood tough kids pick on because in Knoxville he has the "nigger" name "Rufus."

Mary comes of an upper-class Catholic family; Jay, anti-religious and a reformed alcoholic, comes of Tennessee hill people, including that ancient matriarch and a mean-drinking younger brother in the undertaking business in a nearby small town.

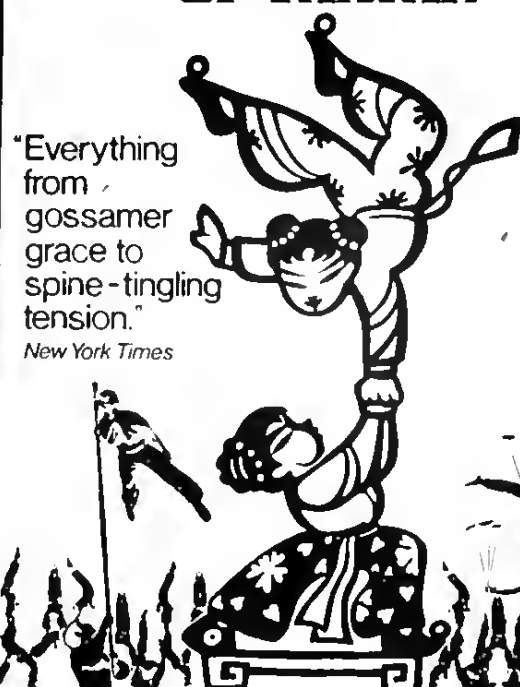

"Beautiful Scenes." Yet Jay is the gentle, mature one -- until tragedy suddenly matures Mary -- and his scenes with young Rufus are wise and beautiful. (Rufus obediently squinting to see the North Pole is a memorable moment.)

What happens in "All the Way Home" might happen in almost any family. The almost unbearable pressures come from life, from human quirks, from the laws and in-laws of nature, and not from the head of a playwright. But each scene is a dramatic gem: not self-consciously symbolic, as in so many contemporary plays, but with emotional echoes that make it larger than life.

Perhaps the most spectacular element in play and production is the boy Rufus. To start with, the part is

McCarter Meets Terms of $342,000 Grant By Ending Latest Fiscal Year in Black

McCarter's fiscal year ended in the black, the theatre announced this week.

That means McCarter continues to qualify for its Ford Foundation Cash Reserve Grant. A prime condition of the grant - $342,000 - is that McCarter maintain a positive net worth at the close of each of five consecutive fiscal years. McCarter has now met this challenge for the year that ended June 30, 1979, according to the McCarter Theatre Company's annual audit. The grant was awarded in 1977.

Robert J. Paulus, president of McCarter's board of trustees, expressed the trustees' thanks for community support:

"We are most grateful to all McCarter Associates and subscribers, and to individuals, governmental agencies, foundations and corporations who, by their generous support, have enabled McCarter to continue toward full realization of the Ford Foundation Grant."

McCarter Review

through this long and complex role would be in itself -- like Dr. Johnson's fiddling dog -- impressive. But Parvin goes far beyond that. He gets nuances from subtle lines, his timing is miraculous. To see him overcome some small-boy nervousness at the start, and go on to deliver speech after speech with clarity and authority, is nothing short of thrilling.

A Small Star Shines. This, in spades, is what makes living theater more exciting than films. Go to McCarter and see a small star shine.

Rufus provides what used to be called "comic relief" in a colorful but sober play -- but much more. Not a prodigy, merely a nice, bright, sensitive kid who can spell "p-r-o-u-d" and "b-r-a-v-e," he spells "h-o-p-e" for all of us.

Every other actor deserves mention. To single out a few: Stephen Mendillo is touching without being pathetic as the weak-strong Jay. Megan Cole as Mary is likeable even when fussy and sanctimonious, and the way she deals with death in the family is heroic without ceasing to be human.

Bruce Somerville is detestable but not boring as the frequently bombed embalmer; G. Wood's quiet dignity, rich voice and time-marked face serve him well as Jay's father; Sallie Brophy as the self-sacrificing Aunt Sadie brings a very necessary command to a little play-within-the-play when all the Follets troop into the hills to call on senile (but nobody knows exactly how senile) "granmaw," played with fascinating believability by Minerva Davenport in a home-made wheelchair.

A Memorable Shopping Scene. Anne Sheldon is superb as Mary's drily witty Aunt Hannah, especially in a memorable scene when she takes Rufus shopping, eats half his chocolate drops, but helps him buy the tough-boy cap he longs for.

Jay Dayle is charming and philosophical as Mary's lawyer father, who employs and likes Jay, and deals patiently but not unhumorously with his patrician, hard-of-hearing wife, handsomely played by Josephine Nichols.

A particularly attractive actor is Stephen Stout and we were happy to see him in a good challenging role, that of Mary's younger brother, after his stalwart but undemanding service as the angel in "The Visions of Simone Machard." Leslie Geraci, the Simone of that season opener, is fine as the undertaker's bullied wife.

The setting by John Jensen -- basically two floors of Jay and Mary's house, but open and sketchy enough to permit the play's movement to other places -- is pleasant and leaves something to the imagination, which recent McCarter sets have tended not to do. The louvered back wall, like a giant Venetian blind, is a witty touch.

 The large cast and episodic nature of the play make lighting crucial, and John McLain again comes through admirably. Jennifer von Mayrhauser's costumes evoke the play's World War I period.
 All in all, this second production by McCarter's new Artistic Director, Nagle
 Jackson, is one of the best evenings ever at McCarter.

"JUMPERS" IS NEXT
 At McCarter, Tom Stoppard's "Jumpers," which has been called his finest work, will be the third offering this season at McCarter. It will open Friday, November 30, following previews November
 27-29, and will play through December 16.
 "Jumpers" opens with an apparently nonsensical series of events, whose meaning becomes clear by the end of the play. There's a woman who tries to sing old vaudeville tunes about the moon, another who swings in on a chandelier, some jum-pers who make pyramids -- and then there is a murder.

It's a very real murder mystery, laced with witty, Stoppard-style speculations on God, morality, aesthetics. And so on. There is a philosopher with a wife named Dotty. And the corpse in Dotty's bedroom.
 Stoppard's first play, "The Gamblers," opened in 1965. It was followed by "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead" (1966) and then "The Real Inspector Hound," "After Magritte," "Dogg's Our Pet," "Jumpers" and "The House of Bernard Alba." Stoppard's
 "Travesties" had its world premiere in New York in 1974.
 "Jumpers" came to the United States with a Kennedy Center performance early in 1974.
PINTER'S PARTY
 At Intime. Theatre Intime's season will open at the seaside boarding house where Harold Pinter's "The Birthday Party" takes place. Princeton University's student theatre will present the Pinter work this Thursday through Sunday, and next Thursday through Sunday in Intime's Murray Theatre, on the University campus. Performances are at 8:30.

 Christopher Baumer is directing.
 The focus of "The Birthday Party" is the character of Stanley, to be played by Wilson Kidde. His previous roles have been Hamlet in "Rosencrantz and Guilden-stern Are Dead," and leading parts in "Dark of the Moon" and "Rimers of Eldritch."
 The sinister Goldberg will be Jed Rubenfeld, who has played Horatio in "Hamlet," and Teddy in "When You Comin' Back, Red Ryder?"
 Goldberg's sidekick will be Bob McDonough, who has appeared in "La Ronde" and,
 last season, in Princeton Inn
 Theatre's "The Philanthropist."
 Lulu, the seduced seduc-tress, will be Milly Massey, whom Intime audiences will recall as the innocent milk-maid in "Patience" and as Cressida in Shakespeare's
 "Troilus and Cressida."
 Sunni Farrington and David Stone portray the elderly couple who run the seaside boarding house. Ms.
 Farrington has been in the Shakespeare '70 repertory company, and Mr. Stone has been in "Rosencrantz" and "Loot."
AT PLAYHOUSE
"Movies-from-McCarter."
 The Playhouse on Palmer Square is about to become the temporary home of the Movies-from-McCarter film series, and all movies in the series will be shown there until further notice.
 "Who'll Stop the Rain?" is the first of the films, followed on a double bill by "Escape from Alcatraz." The pair will be shown from this Thursday through Wednesday,
 November 15. Thursday
 through Saturday, "Escape from Alcatraz" will be shown first; Sunday through Wednesday, the first screening will be "Who'll Stop the Rain?"
 Subscriptions to Movies-from-McCarter may be purchased at the McCarter
 box-office between noon and 6,
 Mondays through Saturdays.
 They may also be ordered from the Playhouse, 924-0180.

War correspondent who participates in a drug-smuggling scheme that imperils not only his life, but that of his wife (played by Tuesday Weld) and an old friend (Nick Nolte). Besides doses of thrills and violence, there is a sense of the social importance of the theme.

"Escape from Alcatraz" is based on the true story of the escape from Alcatraz of convict Frank Morris, who fled the prison in 1962 and was never heard of again. Clint Eastwood plays the role, supported by Patrick McGouhan as a sadistic warden and Roberts Blossom and Paul Benjamin as fellow convicts.

RENOVATIONS MADE

For Players' Theatre. A newly-renovated "theatre" is now in premiere at 171 Broadmead. It's Princeton Community Players' own theatre -- well, rented -- re-designed, re-painted, re-furnished. There's even real coffee, instead of last season's instant.

"The Rainmaker," curtain-raiser for the 1979-80 season, has three performances left: this Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Curtain time is 8:30 on Friday and Saturday nights, 7:30 on Sunday. Reservations may be made at 921-6314.

For new audiences, the most dramatic change the Players have made is the stage. Instead of a thrust stage and one wall, the Players now use John Schenck's re-designed "theatre in the round."

The 84-seat capacity of the intimate little theatre has been so arranged that nobody in the audience is farther than two rows from the stage. The auditorium has been painted, too, in deep, dramatic tones of grey and charcoal.

New Light Board. Next to the new theatre-in-the-round concept, the newest thing is the $3,900 light board, now making its debut. It is the Players' hope that box-office receipts this season will allow for completion of the lighting package next year.

The lounge, where members of the audience gather before the play begins and sip coffee at intermission, has also been repainted -- dark red and cream, with a new grey rug. Furniture may be in somewhat short supply, but Players are eagerly looking for donors, so there may be more when you return November 30 for Tennessee Williams "The Garden District."

About that coffee. At intermission you may now buy a cup of real, true honest coffee. No more instant. And the strudel they'll slice for you is real, too. Soda, if you want something cold.

"The Rainmaker," directed by Susan Trapper, has a cast that is almost a family: Marty Salkin, who plays the almost-old-maid Lizzie; Marty's husband, Allan Salkin, who has the role of the eligible deputy sheriff; and Marty's son, Mark Goebel, a 17-year-old actor who portrays Marty's younger brother.

The Broadmead theatre may be reached by turning off Nassau Street at Princeton Avenue, which eventually becomes Broadmead. Parking is ample.

BRECHT WITH MUSIC

At Acting Studio. "The Good Person of Szechwan" -- known in an earlier incarnation as "The Good Woman of Szechwan" -- will open this Thursday for a two-weekend run at The Acting Studio, 185 Nassau Street. The Brecht comedy is a production of Princeton University's Program in Theatre and Dance. It will play this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8, and November 15, 16, and 17 at 9:30.

Director Carol Elliott, pointing out that in Brecht's own view, instruction and entertainment were not incompatible, says her production will have music, songs, mime, humor, fantasy, a slideshow and a film. All are interwoven with a story which concerns itself with poverty, hunger, good and evil.

"Brecht is asking if it is possible for a good person to remain good if she becomes rich" Ms. Elliott comments, "or, is it possible for one to be good, if one is poor?"

In the play, a young woman finds herself burdened with taking care of more people than she can afford. She solves the problem by creating a second identity which will allow her, at times, to be "bad." She switches quickly from person to person -- and the audience is always in on the trick.

Music has been composed for this production by Ricky Ratowsky, a Princeton University student. Gary Manheit arranged the music, which will be performed live by a three-member band. Fifteen cast members not only play a variety of instruments, but also sing.

Tickets, at $2, will be on sale at the door before each performance. Additional information may be obtained from 452-3676 weekday afternoons.

SHAW WORK DUE

In Film at Library. The Princeton Public Library will present the film "Major Barbara," Gabriel Pascal's film translation of George Bernard Shaw's play on Thursday, November 15, at 8.

The film, produced in 1941, is the story of a Salvation Army girl played by Wendy Hiller. Rex Harrison and Robert Morley co-star as her father and her fiance. The free two-hour program, open to the public, is made possible by the Friends of the Princeton Public Library through a bequest of the late Edith Barenholtz.

New York Lies Ahead for Princeton-Born Opera Star

Pert as Susanna, as lyrically lovely as Micaela, with the child-like smile of a Gretel — Maryanne Telese is a natural choice for these choice operatic roles. She has sung them all, and more, in cities as far apart as Houston, Boston, Central City and Atlanta.

Now she's looking forward to her first Butterfly, which she will sing next summer in the Lake George Opera. Her next assignment will be Valencienne, in a Hartford Opera Company production with Anna Noffo in February.

Maryanne has been at home, at 303 Ewing, with her opera-director husband, poised for the move to New York and the exciting unknowns of the music capital of the world.

Maryanne isn't sure, today, that she really wanted to be an opera singer quite so early as the solos she sang as a little girl in St. Paul's School. But by the time she graduated from Villa Victoria Academy in Trenton, she knew opera was her goal.

Native Princetonian. She's a Princeton girl, born and raised. Her parents are Frank and Domenica Romeo Telese. She lived all her life, before marriage, in the Ewing Street house -- until and after it burned to the ground and was rebuilt -- and her mother was born on nearby Oakland Road.

"Mother always said I had a good set of lungs," Maryanne laughs. "Instead of playing with dolls, I'd sit on the kitchen floor, banging on a pot and singing. Always loud and boisterous!"

So often, it's "the teacher." For Maryanne, it was Villa Victoria's Sister Helen Bruno, no longer living, who cast the young singer in a fund-raising production, "Scenes from Opera." It was Sister Helen who urged her to enter the Stokes competition for young New Jersey musicians. The competition is open to both instrumentalists and vocalists, and Maryanne won over them all.

With graduation from Villa Victoria in view, she auditioned for several conservatories, was accepted by several, and chose Oberlin. She earned both B.A. and M.A. there, and also met the man she was to marry, David Gately.

Successful Audition. "He'd gotten a job directing and managing for the Texas Opera Theatre. I'd heard there was a soprano opening in the Houston Grand Opera company, so I auditioned, got the job, we moved our wedding ahead, got married in St. Paul's the Saturday after Thanksgiving in 1975, and were rehearsing 'Hansel and Gretel' the next day!"

The two and one-half years based in Texas brought not only Susanna in Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro," and Gretel in "Hansel and Gretel," but Isabel in Sousa's "El Capitan," Monica in Menotti's "The Medium," Valencienne in "The Merry Widow."

"I was only in the second cast of the Houston Grand Opera 'Merry Widow' -- but the first cast had Beverly Sills!"

Meanwhile, she was winning contests, including a Martha Baird Rockefeller Foundation Grant and third place in WGN-Chicago's audition. The National Opera Institute gave her a grant last year.

Her most difficult and exciting role so far has been in Thomas Pasteri's "Washington Square," adapted from the Henry James novel. She sang last year in the southeast premiere of the work, with the Augusta (Georgia) Opera Company.

Three Days to Curtain-Time. They've heard of Maryanne: Sarah Caldwell's company called from Boston to ask whether, on three days' notice, she could sing a role in "La Vida Breve" with Victoria de los Angeles. Of course. With some quick brushing-up of her Spanish. New England audiences have also heard her in "Daughter of the Regiment." She has sung it in Texas, as well.

David and Maryanne left Texas for New York because they decided it was "time." The National Opera Institute grant is for voice study with a Houston teacher, however, so there will be flying trips. In New York, Maryanne has coaches in languages, phrasing, opera style, and a manager who will make sure

LET'S TALK ABOUT

NOTES FOR NOVEMBER

with Sam deTuro

Woodwinds Associates

Although the "frost is on the pumpkin," there are still some things to be done around the garden below are one or two notes on plants for homeowners to consider this month.

This week, before really cold weather sets in, dig up one or two of your favorite chrysanthemums and place them in pots for "greenhouse" use. This way you can be assured of flowers for your Thanksgiving table.

Before mid-month, discard annuals (such as ageratum, etc.) as they begin to fade. You should prune all geraniums you have brought inside for the winter back to 3". They should now have a three month rest in a dim, cool place (45° - 50°) and should receive water about once a week or so.

Just about mid-month, assuming you have given your Christmas cactus a month's rest, start watering it once a week for one month. Then, put it in a sunny window and water normally (each time it dries out). It should then flower by Christmas.

Before the end of the month, WOODWINDS reminds homeowners to be sure to mulch, mulches should be applied following a frost (ideally, hard enough to reach a depth of 2").

Remember, too, that late fall is an ideal time to feed your trees and shrubs. Roots are still growing in late fall (and begin to grow again at the first flush of warm weather in late winter). Feeding now assures proper nutrients will be available for the unfolding buds next spring. Feeding is the sure way to keep trees at the peak of health, able to fend off diseases and insect attack.

WOODWINDS is happy to answer any questions you may have concerning your valuable trees and shrubs. Please call us at 924-3550.

Lynn Harrell Opens Music-at-McCarter Series Turning His Concert into A Theatrical Event

Lynn Harrell's concert Monday night, the first in this season's Music-at-McCarter series, was both wonderful and interesting. Mr. Harrell clearly understands that a concert is a theatrical event. He has complete control of his 'cello. He also has complete control of one of the best stage faces in the business. Better mugging I have not seen.

The question is not whether acting has any part in a musical concert. Clearly it does. Even the player who creates as "neutral" a stage presence as is possible is acting. The question is whether the act is appropriate to what is being played. Mr. Harrell's acting, more overt acting than most experienced in concert, was appropriate. That it was, was the interesting part of the concert. The wonderful part was Mr. Harrell's playing.

The concert began with a sonata in A major by Luigi Boccherini. It had a problem that was basic to the whole concert -- the balance of the piano and the 'cello.

Pianist John Atkins's playing was here, and for most of the evening, balanced with the 'cello for nothing but accompaniment. This balance allowed the 'cello no chance to be anything but the principal part, so that, even in the relatively simple texture of the Boccherini, there seemed to be no sense of instrumental interaction.

When, as in the Kodaly Sonata which followed, the action of the piece involved exchanging motives when there was no chance of one instrument covering the other, the action began to work. In fact, the second movement of the Kodaly was the first time where the instruments seemed to be in the same piece. The ensemble playing at that point was very good and continued to be excellent for the rest of the night, except for the question of balance.

Balance Problem Continues. Beethoven's Sonata in C major, good ensemble or not, did not come across. The contrasts between sections were played to the hilt. Any chance for drama was grabbed but the simple exchange and unfolding of line wasn't available because of the problem of balance.

The Tchaikovsky Pezzo Capriccioso, on the other hand, worked wonderfully. Here it was appropriate that the 'cello be principal part throughout.

The second half of the concert began with Bach's Suite No. 3 in C major for unaccompanied 'cello. Mr. Harrell prefaced his performance with some remarks on the baroque bow he was about to use, pointing out particularly its softer tone production and its different articulative possibilities. His performance of the Suite went smoothly.

The performance of Chopin's Sonata in G major was wonderful. Harrell's concentration on the dramatic played itself out here. The Chopin was really the best vehicle of the night for Harrell.

The problem with a concert that is really good is that there is nothing much to say after it. This concert was really good.

opera companies know about her.

Born into an Italian family, she heard and spoke Italian in Princeton as a child, but it was a regional Italian, so she has had to learn a more classic form of the language. She also knows German, French and, "for singing," Spanish.

Yes, her husband has directed her -- and critically.

"He's more critical than some directors because he says he knows what potential is there. He's an excellent director. No, I don't use my married name. Whoever heard of an opera singer named Gately!"

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to You by John Bernard

What man played in more pro football games than anyone else in history? ... Answer is George Blanda who played pro football for an amazing 26 YEARS -- from 1949 to 1975 ... He played in 340 games, and is the only man ever to have played pro football in 4 different decades -- the 1940s, 1950s, 1960s and 1970s.

I bet you didn't know that many health insurance plans for families do not cover children after they reach 19 years old.

Here's an oddity ... The three teams with the highest payrolls in major league baseball in 1979 ALL failed to win the pennant this year ... The three teams with the highest payroll in 1979 were the Yankees, Phils and Red Sox.

One of the great oddities in sports is how many great players never achieved major championships -- for instance, O.J. Simpson and Fran Tarkenton never played on a team that won the National Football League title ... Golfer Sam Snead never won the U.S. Open ... Baseball immortals Ty Cobb and Ted Williams, unbelievably, never played on a team that won the World Series, and so it goes.

Tigers Eye Place among the Stars: Victory Over Yale and 1st Place Tie in Ivy League

THE INCHES WERE IN HIS FAVOR: Sophomore quarterback Bob Holly just made it into the end zone before he went out of bounds at Franklin Field Saturday and barely eluded the dive of a Penn tackler. His 37-yard jaunt with just over a minute to play in first half brought Tigers from behind and launched their 38-10 triumph.

Rated a somewhat stronger bet to end Yale's string of consecutive triumphs (12) than it has been in seven years -- but nonetheless a definite underdog -- Princeton's football team will face the title-bound Elis Saturday at 1:30 in Palmer Stadium. Good weather could bring a crowd upwards of 20,000, an impressive figure in these days of deflated Ivy League football, when Columbia and Dartmouth may well have set an all-time low at Baker Field last week by playing before a "crowd" of 2,150.

Twice in the last dozen years -- in 1969, when they shared a third of the championship, and two years later, when both teams failed to top the break-even mark -- Princeton was expected to beat the Blue, but failed to do so. Otherwise, the Elis have been rated superior, have proved to be just that, and are likely to continue their galling mastery of the Tigers this time.

Stripped by graduation of 18 starters, Carmen Cozza, the most successful coach in Yale's bountiful football history, has apparently done it again. He nudged by Brown in the season's opener with touchdowns following a pair of blocked kicks, got by Dartmouth, 3-0, on an unproductive day, and last week saw his team go 67 yards for the winning TD over Cornell which was recorded with just 47 seconds left.

It is Yale's overall balance that makes the Elis go, although this year they are using not one but generally two and sometimes three quarterbacks. Against Cornell, senior Dennis Dunn started but it was sophomore John Rogan who bailed them out with a pair of touchdown passes in the final quarter. Phil Manley is also available.

Defense Outstanding. Until Cornell chopped up the Blue in impressive fashion, it was leading the nation in both overall defense and yards allowed rushing. Yale's first six opponents averaged but seven points against it, Cornell managing 20 last weekend but losing by three. It is the Bulldogs' constant ability to hold opponents in check that will in all likelihood make the

TWO WAYS TO GO TO COURT.

In the last 20 years a lot of things have changed about basketball. Including shoes. You don't have to settle for those old black and white canvas hi tops any more. Today more and more players are going to court wearing Nikes. Just look at the playgrounds, colleges and the NBA.

Take the Nike Franchise up there in the picture. Uppers of fine grain leather. Soles with a specially designed pattern for quick stops and sharp cuts. Light. Comfortable. And built to give extra support where you need it most.

Try the Franchise. Or take your pick of our Blazer and Bruin models.

QUICK LOOK AT YALE

OFFENSE: Largely unspectacular, but extremely solid. Averages around 325 yards a game and makes two for every one defense yields.

DEFENSE: A hallmark of Yale football. Best in Ivy League and one of the best in nation.

CHIEF ASSET: Sky-high morale, based on Ivy title's being within reach blended with 12-year domination of rivalry with Tigers.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Pressure in face of knowledge that defeat will probably cost chance to win Ivy championship outright.

TYPE OF ATTACK: Multiple.

difference here Saturday, because the Tigers' offense is a sometime thing despite their high standing among the Ivies.

Numerous capable players dot the Yale defensive unit, but the standout is senior line-backer Tim Tumpene, with Otha Porter, another line-backer, and Chris Kelly in the deep secondary also well up in number of tackles made. Nose guard Kevin Czingler leads in quarterback sacks with half a dozen and is also credited with both blocked punts that won the Brown game.

The Elis have invariably had to work for what they get on the board, and save for their game with trouble-plagued Columbia, have not scored more than three touchdowns on an afternoon. They can, however, blend ball control with the long gainer, and when that is backed by a topflight defense, it is reflected in a 7-0 mark. Yale is one of eight major colleges in the nation with a perfect record.

Senior running back Ken Hill, the lone offensive holdover from last year's good team, is the leading ground-gainer with an average close to 4 yards per carry. Dunn is ranked second, with the Elis preferring the ground to the air, while fullback Mike Sullivan is impressive enough through the middle to have hopes of a pro career. Wide receiver Dan Stratton is by far the primary target on passes with 24 receptions and place-kicker Dave Schwartz tops the Elis in scoring with 36 points, 21 of them on field goals.

PENN FADED EARLY

Second Half Was Costly. After coming within 90 seconds of taking a 10-7 lead into the dressing room at the intermission, Pennsylvania played a wretched second half against the Tigers at Philadelphia Saturday and was trounced, 38 to 10. With a minute and a half left in the second quarter, sophomore quarterback Bob Holly broke loose on an option play, outrunning the defenders on a diagonal cross cut to the left coffin corner, and the shift in momentum carried the Orange and Black to a badly needed one-sided triumph. It was Princeton's first victory at Franklin Field since 1970 and its largest score against the Quakers in a decade.

Learning visibly as he went, unsure on his options at the outset, and no better than 3 for 9 passing, Holly gradually took charge as the Tigers sent this somewhat woebegone foe to its seventh straight defeat this season and its tenth in a row since October, 1978. In addition to his own TD, Holly threw for one on which Larry Van Pelt motored in behind a screen and later executed the option play to perfection on a four-yard pitchout to Van Pelt for the latter's third score of the afternoon.

The festivities opened with Van Pelt scoring on Princeton's second play from scrimmage, a 46-yard dash on a trap play to the right. But as had been the case at Cambridge, the early score seemed to lull the Tigers into a state of over-relaxation, and by the middle of round two, they were trailing by 10-7. Penn's scores came on a 67-yard pass play, on which the receiver outplayed defensive back Henry Milligan for the reception, and a 51-yard field goal which seemed to sail forever with the aid of a persistent tail wind.

Holly's last-minute touchdown closed out the first half but the Quakers were still very much in the game, with an 11-6 edge in first downs and a total offense figure of 228. If that were doubled, the Tigers might well become victims of an upset that would have finished off their season right there.

Fine Third Quarter. In six games this fall, Princeton had been almost totally flat in the third quarter, managing a total of just nine points. In Philadelphia on Saturday, the Orange and Black rolled for 17 in a space of 10 minutes and added another seven before the final period was two minutes gone.

The screen pass to Van Pelt covered 44 yards for the first TD, a six-play drive that culminated in a 32-yard field goal by Lou Vaccarello followed, and a 48-yard march on which Van Pelt circled right end with the pitchout then broke the game open. As the reserves took over, but with Holly still at quarterback, sophomore Jonathan Berry erased the final yard of a 52-yard march to close out the day's action.

First Place at Stake. While the odds are substantial against a Yale defeat, it is greatly to Princeton's credit that the standings show it will earn a share of first place in the Ivy League should it win on Saturday. Neither that nor the four victories the Tigers have already recorded have been the case since 1969, and whatever happens in their final two contests, they are already assured of their first finish among the top four in the decade that is now ending.

For Princeton to win Saturday, everything will have to come up right for the Tigers. Quarterback Steve Reynolds, benched by strained knee ligaments, may be unavailable; if he is ready, it will take a near-perfect game from him, one in which his passing will need to be right on target after a poor day against Colgate, little action against Harvard and none against Penn. Logically, that is quite unlikely. Holly is learning, but he is still making the anticipated mistakes of a sophomore quarterback.

For the Tigers to win over the Blue for the first time since 1967, it will also take a 100-yard plus day on the ground for either Cris Crissy, who is now far short of his 1978 performance when he was named All-Ivy as a sophomore, or for sophomore Larry Van Pelt. Both are highly capable ball carriers but both are still making much of their yardage on their own, because the Princeton line hasn't measured up to last year's veteran forwards. Yale's superb defense may hold both Tiger backs in check, as four of the seven teams Princeton has played already have.

On the record, Yale is unbeaten and has outplayed the two other strongest teams in the league — Brown and Cornell — both with overall marks of 5-2. Princeton, to the contrary, is 4-3, was manhandled by Brown and the total number of victories its four Ivy victims have achieved among them stands at four — out of 28 games they have played.

If everything goes right for Princeton, it may win Saturday — for the first time since most of the seniors on the team were 9 years old. If not, the little demon who has been riding around and around on that ever-growing string of defeats will become a teenager.

—Donald C. Stuart.

BANK SHUT OUT, 25-0

By Nassau-Conover Motors. Nassau-Conover Motors ran its record to 3-0 last week in Midget Football with a 25-0 win over First National Bank. Conover mounted three sustained drives, highlighted by the passing of Pete Radice and Jason Petrone and the running of Albino Nini and Jeff Guest. Radice connected on passes to Charles Brown and Guest for touchdowns while Nini and Guest each carried the ball seven times for fifty-five yards.

The Conover defense was led by Randy Freeman and Jeff Guest who combined for 20 tackles.

Princeton High and Notre Dame to Battle For CVC Crown in Friday Evening Game

For Princeton High the big one is Friday night. Showdown time between the Little Tigers and Notre Dame. At stake is the Colonial Valley Conference football crown.

"We're where we want to be," said PHS coach Jim Beachell, after his Little Tigers scored in every period last week to defeat Lawrence, 31-7, Paul Miles accounting for all five TDs. "We're going in with a chance to win. If we can defense 'em, we'll be in it."

The two schools will meet at Notre Dame at 7:30 in what will be Princeton's first football game under the lights. The Irish will enter the contest with a 6-1 record and a 3-0 CVC mark. Princeton is 5-2 and 3-1 in the league.

A Little Tiger victory means PHS would share the CVC crown with Notre Dame -- assuming (and it is more of a certainty than an assumption) that ND defeats McCorristin in its final league game on Thanksgiving Day. Over the past three years, Notre Dame has been undefeated in CVC play, winning 10 straight.

Miles Vs. Perna. The game will feature a head-to-head confrontation between Miles, the leading rusher in the county with 912 yards and Notre Dame's Bill Perna, the number two rusher, who has 778, after being held to a season-low 44 yards in 15 carries by Hightstown. ND defeated Hightstown last week, 24-7, with first-string quarterback Pete Brescia sitting on the bench with an injury.

Miles is forcing PHS followers to dig deep into their bag of superlatives to describe his achievements. His five TDs against Lawrence was the second week in a row the junior tailback has scored five. Of Princeton's 21 touchdowns this season, Miles has 19.

In addition to rushing for

"D" AS IN DEFENSE: Host of white-shirted PHS tacklers stop Lawrence's big fullback, Adam Bethea, for a two-yard gain after taking a swing pass from Scott Jiras in second quarter. Little Tiger defense kept Cardinals scoreless until 3:27 left to play as PHS won, 31-7. At left, PHS coach Jim Beachell does a tango to avoid play.

four scores against the Cardinals, Miles also scored on an eight-yard pass from Dave Dinella, returned two pass interceptions for 90 yards and threw a halfback option pass to Steve Budd.

With Miles, PHS can explode for a score anywhere on the field. One-hundred seven points in two games attests to Princeton's potent offense. Beachell insists, however, that it is the steadily-improving passing of Dinella that has made the PHS offense jell.

Notre Dame, more explosive in the first part of the season, has not dominated in its last starts. Against Hightstown, ND picked off four passes, one a 54-yard return for six points by Keith Jackson. "The defense won this one," said ND coach Chappy Moore.

Can the Irish stop Miles? Will PHS shutdown Perna? Which ever team is most successful defending the other, both coaches agree, will walk away the winner.

Cardinals Outmanned. Miles handled the offense and the defense successfully throttled Cardinal quarterback Scott Jiras Saturday as the Little Tigers struck in every period against Lawrence, which had only 19 players suited up.

For its first score, PHS marched 71 yards in 7 plays, getting most of a 44-yard carry by Budd to the 11. In three carries, Miles took it in. Number two came less than two minutes later with 1:37 left in the opening period.

Mark Adams intercepted a Jiras pass on the 39. On the next play, Miles was off down the sidelines -- untouched -- for the score. Number three came near the end of the half.

Bethea, back to punt, tried to cross up the PHS defense with a pass. Miles picked it off, returned it 29 yards to midfield. A 22-yard Dinella pass to Adams carried to the eight from where Miles took it in with 30 seconds left. Miles almost got another before intermission when he intercepted Jiras again and returned the ball more than three-quarters the length of the field on the last play of the half.

Larry McKeller's fumble recovery on the Cardinal 17 triggered Princeton's fourth score. A holding penalty temporarily halted PHS, but when Dinella passed seven yards to Miles, who breezed unchallenged into the end zone, a PHS onlooker remarked, "He makes it look so easy."

Miles then high-stepped his way through the middle from 12 yards out with 9:41 left for his final score. The PAT kick hit the bar and bounced back -- the fourth time in five attempts the victors failed to convert.

Lawrence scored in the final minutes when the 6-2, 195-pound Bethea plunged over off tackle from the four. The drive had originated on the PHS 24 where Rex Hendricks had covered a Budd fumble.

We Can Pass. "We opened it up with our passing. We wanted to let them know we can throw the ball," said Beachell. "We've worked very hard on our passing game."

"Dinella's got confidence now. That's what counts. He's really throwing the ball well." Dinella completed seven of 11 for 115 yards for his best day in the air. Budd also ran well, rushing for 90 yards in eight carries.

"We're really starting to come on," commented Beachell, who pointed out six points separates PHS from an undefeated record. "We're a good team."

Last year, Beachell continued, when PHS had to go with younger players, "we had to eat a lot of dirt. This year we're going for a complete reversal."

PHS FRESHMEN 6-0
In Football. Led by quarterback Terrence Phox, the Princeton High freshman football team last week defeated Lawrence, 45-6. It was its sixth win without a loss.

The first half included touchdown runs by Scott Gabrielsen, Stephen Fletcher and Jerry Ingram. Phox also ran one in from 20 yards out.

To start the second half, Fletcher ran back the opening kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown. Phox then connected on a pair of touchdown passes to split end Ken McKellar to complete the rout. Chris Crafton and Eric Larsen opened the holes with fine blocking on the line.

The defense also excelled -- P.J. Young and Alec Hoke blocked a punt, Willie Whitaker returned an interception for a touchdown, and Scott Gabrielsen led the team with five unassisted tackles.

WW BREEZES, 30-8
Past McCorristin. Scoring twice in the first period on a 5-yard scamper by Mel Cote that capped a 55-yard drive and a 14-yard pass from John Brienza to Pete Bahr, West Windsor had little trouble last week in defeating winless McCorristin, 30-8.

The Pirates added two more TDs in the second half -- Bahr grabbing a 24-yard strike from Brienza and sophomore Don Casciola sprinted nine yards to build their lead to 30-0. The good news was Princeton's 28th consecutive loss (there over Lawrence -- its fourth has been one tie) scored in the straight over the Cardinals -- final minute of play from one which placed PHS in a position to win the Colonial Valley Conference title. The bad game without its starting news? Two days earlier, PHS quarterback, Bill Schwing, had been eliminated, 2-1, by who failed to recover in time Freehold Boro in the NJSIAA from an ankle injury he suffered in last week's game with competition.

Green Brook. His slot was filled by Brienza. WW coach Rex Walker was also sidelined with an illness and the team was guided by assistant coach Rolla Warner.

PHS IS CVC WINNER
In Soccer. Princeton High School is the 1979 Colonial Valley Conference soccer season, we wouldn't have anything to worry about."

"We won it all," said PHS coach Ed Beacham, after his Little Tigers scored two first-period goals Monday against Notre Dame and then hung on for a 2-1 victory. "Last year, Lawrence goalie Joe Ingas we snuck in the back door with a tie; this year we walked in the front door."

Jay Bienkowski scored early for PHS and when Bruce Liffiton followed with his 11th goal of the season about six minutes later, Beacham remarked, "we looked super on offense every time we came up. We couldn't be stopped."

"Then we decided two goals was enough. We went into a defensive shell and were bombarded the rest of the game." The home team Irish tied it before the half but the second half was scoreless.

Brent Robinson was again in front of the goal. "He played a super, super game," said Beacham, who had sidelined Robinson in favor of Riccardo Ucci in previous games. "I was only going to use him a half but he played so well I kept him in the whole game."

The Little Tigers finished 8-3-1 in league play with 17 points. Beacham had predicted at the start of the season that PHS would be a top contender for the CVC crown which it shared last year with Lawrence. "I figured if we could beat Lawrence and hangin with the rest of the teams, we would have a good shot at it."

"Looking back, it was a season where we got up for the big games and lost to mediocre clubs except for Ewing. We played our best soccer against the best teams and our worst clubs."

With the two extra players hanging back, PHS was able, as Beacham hoped, to control the midfield. That and some solid goaltending by Riccardo Ucci shut down the frustrated Cardinals, who controlled the play during most of the second half and led in shots on goal.

PHS EDGES LAWRENCE
But Loses State Soccer Match. There was good and bad news for the Princeton High soccer team last week. The goal by Liffiton was his tenth, and his sixth game-winning goal. The shutout was Ucci's third since taking over from starting goalie Brent Robinson five games ago.

A sophomore, Ucci played goalie in Argentina where he grew up, Beacham reported. He had used the stocky, aggressive Ucci on the line earlier in the season.

Orr Scores Against Freehold. "If we had played like this against Freehold, it would have been no contest," said Beacham after the Lawrence win. "We played hard but we just didn't have that edge."

Orr, a sophomore, scored Princeton's only goal after taking a centering pass from Jay Bienkowski. Freehold tied it and the game went into overtime.

Leading in corner kicks, PHS only had to keep freehold from scoring to win. However, with five seconds left in the first OT, an involuntary handball by a PHS player on a routine shot that Beacham said would have been handled easily by Ucci led to a direct kick and Freehold's winning goal.

PHS GIRLS WIN FINALE
In Field Hockey. The Princeton High School girls field hockey team defeated Notre Dame, 3-0, Monday in its final game of the season, but despite the win it wasn't the ending coach Joyce Jones had in mind.

In its previous game, PHS was eliminated from the NJSIAA Central Jersey Group 2 competition and it also lost a chance to share the Colonial Valley Conference crown when Hopewell Valley smashed West Windsor, 7-1, in its last regular league game to clinch the CVC title by one game.

Missy McCloskey scored her 24th goal of the season--a school record-- and Fran Johnston and Kristen Gager scored for PHS in the win over Notre Dame. The Little Tigers finished 12-4-1.

PHS IS OUSTED
In Field Hockey Tourney. The Princeton High School field hockey team discovered last week that past accomplishments count for nothing.

Third-seeded PHS was eliminated Friday by sixth-seeded Delaware Valley, 1-0, in the opening round of the Central Jersey Group 2 state championship. In the previous four years, the Little Tigers had made it to the sectional finals each time, won the Central Jersey title twice and one state title.

Although PHS (12-4-2) outshot Delaware by a two-to-one margin (16-8), Delaware Valley scored the game's only goal 11 minutes into the second half off a short penalty corner. Cindy Lucas's short corner hit went to Linda Churnick who passed to Sonja Foster. Foster's shot rebounded off the pads of PHS goalie Nancy Pesce. Before the Little Tigers could control, the Terriers's Marina Romer picked up the loose ball and pushed it past Pesce.

The Little Tigers applied steady pressure in the final eight minutes but were turned back by the defensive play of fullback Terri Tettemer and Del Val goalie Tracie Hummer who had 15 saves. "It was our biggest win of the season," acknowledged Del Val coach Judy Meehan. The Terriers's record is 10-3-5.

PHS coach Joyce Jones said later that she felt her team had peaked too soon. After the second contest with arch-rival Hopewell Valley, which PHS won, the Little Tigers lost to Notre Dame and Stuart. "We played our best hockey of the season against Hopewell," said Jones.

The previous day, in a Colonial Valley Conference game, PHS blanked Lawrence, 2-0.

Missy McCloskey scored off a short corner in the first half and Lee Ann Chamberlain scored Princeton's second goal in the second half on a breakaway.

PDS Beats Morristown-Beard, 34-0, to End Season at 5-2-1

For the past few seasons, the Princeton Day football team has had the good fortune of closing out its season against Morristown-Beard. The Panthers couldn't ask for a more perfect opponent in order to send everybody home happy.

The final victory enables the team to end on a solid, upbeat note. PDS seniors playing the last game of their secondary school career are apt to have a good day, and the younger, reserve players can join in the fun with an eye toward next fall.

Thus, both players, and PDS fans were in a festive mood Friday afternoon as the Panthers rolled to a 34-0 triumph over the inexperienced North Jersey team. The win gave PDS a 5-2-1 mark, their best since the early '70s.

Two seniors, Bill Haynes and Tim Murdoch each had an outstanding afternoon, scoring two touchdowns apiece. The other score came when junior cornerback Mike Dobkowski intercepted a pass and ran it back for a touchdown. Tight end John Denny scored what appeared to be another six points when he caught a Jeff Freda pass in the end zone, but PDS was called for holding on the play.

The Blue and White had a brief scare early in the game when Morristown recovered a fumble inside the PDS 15-yard line. However, the visitors could go nowhere, and ended up trying a field goal that fell short. Morristown never mounted anything close to a threat thereafter.

Starting on its own 20, PDS moved up field, aided by a long pass from Freda to Murdoch. A couple of plays later, Haynes ran around right end for 22 yards and the first touchdown of the game. Newell Thompson's extra point was blocked (Morristown's best play of the afternoon) and PDS led 6-0.

In the second period, the Blue and White got rolling again on a Freda to Neil Munroe pass that covered 22 yards to the Morristown 15. On the next play, Haynes went around right end again, for six points, breaking several tackles along the way.

It was Murdoch's turn in the second half. In the third quarter, he caught a 34-yard pass from Freda and 10 seconds into the final period, he and Freda teamed up on a 55-yard score. Dobkowski put the icing on the cake with his 21-yard run after a fine interception.

Overall, the PDS offense totalled 368 yards, 154 through the air, and 214 rushing. Haynes had 118 on 12 carries to lead all runners.

Dave Wheaton passed to Darwin for a first down but two plays later a pass in the flat to Clark hit his shoulder pads, bounced in the air and the ball was intercepted.

Hun had gotten on the board first in the second period when Darwin returned a pass interception 60 yards. The kick for the extra point was blocked, Pingry tied it on a drive in the third period but Hun blocked the p.a.t. try for a 6-6 deadlock.

Hun's attack was weakened by the absence of fullback.

SEASON AT AN END

For PDS Soccer Team. The Princeton Day soccer team gave final unmistakable proof last Friday that it is much better than its season-ending 5-6-2 record would indicate.

Already assured of their first losing record in many years, the Panthers demonstrated how well they were capable of playing, handing undefeated Pennington School its first loss in 15 games.

No one would have expected that PDS was saving its best for the final contest of the season. On Monday of last week, the Panthers were eliminated from the state tournament in the first round by Montclair. On Wednesday, they dropped a 4-1 decision to a powerful Lawrenceville team.

By Friday, one might well have thought they would go out with a whimper against Pennington, instead of a bang. Instead, they battled the red Raiders up and down the field, managed one goal near the end of the first half, and then withstood a sustained assault by the Pennington offense through the last period and a half.

The winning goal was set up by a clearing pass from Jean-Luc Ballongue to Tom von Oehsen. He dribbled down the right side, by his man, and lofted a nice centering pass to Phil Ferantee, who put the ball by the Pennington goalie with just 30 seconds left in the half.

Pennington in Control. The teams battled on even terms through the opening of the third period, but as time wore on, PDS players began to think more and more about protecting that one-goal lead.

LAST CHANCE FOR HUN

After 9-6 Loss to Pingry. "We were running the ball well... what more can I say."

Indeed there wasn't anything followers of the Hun

After Tom Wittemore's 25-yard field goal had given Pingry a 9-6 lead in the final period, Hun's Tim Lovering fielded a short return kickoff. Aided by a face mask penalty, Hun started from the Pingry 43.

Paul Sumners bolted 13 yards to the 30. From there, Clark carried the ball four straight times, getting first downs on the 19 and 5. On his fifth carry, he went into the end zone but the ball popped loose.

Hun supporters claimed that Clark had crossed the end zone plane before losing possession but the official ruled that Clark "had fumbled going in, not when he was in the end zone."

Although Pingry was able to eat up valuable time rushing for two first downs, Hun got one more chance with 1:40 left when Scott Darwin fell on a Pingry fumble on the 46.

When he says, "I have had the most exciting life," there is a boyishness and enthusiasm to his voice that belie his 90 years. Mr. and Mrs. Pettit spent the actual birthday in New York at the theatre.

HELP THEM READ

Tutors Sought. A workshop for volunteers who would like to teach adults how to read will be held later this month under the joint sponsorship of Princeton Public Library and other libraries in Mercer County.

Workshop sessions, to be held in the Hamilton Township Public Library on Quaker Bridge Road, will be from 7-9 p.m. Friday, November 16, Monday, November 19 and Tuesday, November 27. A final workshop will be given Saturday, December 1 from 9:30 to 3:30. Hours have been planned to accommodate tutors who have daytime jobs.

Volunteers are trained to use methods developed by the Literacy Volunteers of America. They will be asked to attend all four sessions.

Libraries sponsoring the program point out that adults who do not know how to read, may never have had an opportunity to attend school. They may have dropped out, or bluffed their way through school without ever learning to read and now find they must learn in order to get a job or advance in one they have.

Sue Rock, assistant director of the Princeton Public Library, is a co-ordinator for the project. Additional information may be obtained from her. Volunteers interested in the program may register by calling Hilary Greenfield at the Hamilton Public Library, 890-3460.

quarterback Matt Roach, around whom Leete hand planned his offense for Pingry. He was sidelined with an intestinal virus.

Leete also tried to cross Pingry up by running from the single wing during the first half — the first time it has used the venerable formation this season.

"The kids got it all screwed up. We had only one day to practice it," said Leete. Nothing, it seems, is going right for the Raiders this year.

PHS GIRLS TIED

In Soccer. It sounds a little bizarre but for want of a key the Princeton High School girls' soccer team may have lost a chance to own the CVC soccer crown.

In a vital league game with Notre Dame Monday, PHS and the Irish battled to a 1-1 tie. Sue Mooney's 10-footer earning the deadlock for PHS with eight minutes left in the game. Earlier at the start of the last period, Notre Dame's Loretta Mancuso had scored the game's first goal.

Because the game was so important to both team—PHS, ND and Lawrence all entered the final week tied with 7-1 CVC records—both coaches wanted to play on. But nobody had a key to the Eggerts Crossing Field lights where the contest was played, and the game ended in a deadlock.

Now 7-1-1 in the league, PHS needs help. If the Little Tigers defeat the same Notre Dame team in their final game Wednesday and the Irish then beat Lawrence, the Little Tigers will win.

At the moment, Lawrence, following its 2-0 win Monday over Hightstown, is in the best position with an 8-1 record. "The whole league is still up in the air," said PHS coach Carol Parsons, "but this tie gives Lawrence a better chance."

PHS WINS TWO MORE

In Girls Soccer. The football team may have Paul Miles, the field hockey team Missy McCloskey, but the Princeton High School girls soccer team has Sue Mooney. All are enjoying record-setting seasons.

In back-to-back games last week, Mooney scored five goals during a 10-0 rout of Hun School and then scored a first-period goal as PHS edged Lawrence, 1-0, Thursday to hand the Cardinals their first league loss.

Mooney's six goals increased her total this season to 40, a new school record, easily bettering the previous PHS record the junior half-back set last year as a sophomore. PHS will end its season this Wednesday with a game against Notre Dame.

Holly Bull, who is second in scoring for the Little Tigers with 13 goals, had three against Hun, while Nora Oates and Romy Toussaint each scored once. It was the latter's first goal of the season. PHS outshot Hun, 52 to 4.

Against Lawrence, PHS enjoyed a 24-to-14 margin in shots on goal. PHS goalie Claire Callahan had eight saves in recording her sixth shutout of the season. The Cardinal goalie was credited with 15 saves.

PHS entered the last week of play tied with Notre Dame and Lawrence in league play with 7-1 records. Its overall mark is 13-4.

LAWRENCE FINAL VICTIM

For PHS Girls Tennis Team. The Princeton High girls tennis team ended its season Thursday as it had begun -- with a 5-0 victory. The victim in the finale was Lawrence—the 16th time a team has bowed to the Little Tigers this fall.

In fact, PHS makes news when it loses. That happened only once this season to Haddonfield in the NJSIAA Group 2 state semi-finals. PHS, which loses two starters through graduation -- singles players Muffy Ellis and Diane Aronovic -- won the Colonial Valley Conference crown again with a 10-0 record.

No Mercer county school has ever beaten PHS in tennis and PHS coach Bill Homes, completing his fourth year as coach of the girls team, commented, "Relative to area schools, we're still pretty tough."

But noting that West Windsor and Hopewell Valley each carried PHS to 3-2 decisions in games this year, Homes implied that the Little Tigers' long dominance may be coming to an end. "All West Windsor needs is one more good player," he said.

In the final Lawrence match, Ellis won 6-4, 6-0, Aronovic won, 6-2, 6-2, and Rosemary Chowins won by default in singles play. Patty Dinella, the regular number one singles, was sidelined with illness.

In doubles play, the PHS teams of Julie Schwartz and Melanie Goldfeld and Leah Cope and Liza Reed both won, 6-0, 6-0.

PHS GIRLS END 11-0

Tournament Next. The boys' soccer team had a poor season at Princeton Day this fall, but the girls have more than made up for it, rolling through 11 regular season games without a loss.

This week coach Buzz Woodworth and his team will seek to win the first girls' State Prep Class "B" title. The single elimination tournament has been played for years by boys, but this is the first year the girls' teams have set up one of their own.

Seeded first, the Panthers will play Wednesday, and if successful will play in the finals at a neutral field on Friday. Opponents have yet to be determined.

Last week, Princeton Day finished its regular season with victories over Montgomery and Hightstown. Wednesday, the Panthers won for the second time over Montgomery, 3-2 as senior left wing Virginia Ferante scored twice and sophomore striker Jessie Dreznar, once.

A day later, Ferrante had four goals and Paula Duke a pair, in a 6-1 triumph over Hightstown.

GYMNASTICS CLASS SET

For School Children. The Princeton Recreation Department has started registration for its fall and winter gymnastics program, which will begin next Thursday, November 15, and run for thirteen weeks. The program will be held at the Valley Road School Gym from 4:15 to 6:15 and is open to all children in grades four through eight who attend school or live in Princeton.

Mrs. Nancy Valosin will instruct the class for the sixth consecutive year. Registration forms will be distributed to school gym teachers and may also be obtained at the Recreation Office. The deadline for registration is November 15. For further information, call the recreation office at 921-9480.
